COUPLE TELL OF SECRET MARRIAGE

Miss Dorothy Rowley and Frank McGillis Wedded On July 21, 1920

A truly twentieth century romance was revealed in Glendale yesterday, when Miss Dorothy Rowley and Frank McGillis, popular couple, announced their marriage, which took place July 21, 1920, in Redlands.

No formality marked the announcement, which they calmly made to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Rowley of 334 West Vine street, and Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McGillis of 1003 East Lomita avenue. The only thing to mar the announcement was that both families received the news as a joke and could not be convinced until the wedding license was shown.

This document told of the marriage of the young couple in Redlands three years ago. Rev. Earl E. Bicker, now pastor of the Holiness church in Burbank, was the officiant.

On the day of their wedding Miss Rowley and Mr. McGillis motored to Redlands with Rev. and Mrs. Bicker and the ceremony took place at the home of Rev. Bicker's father.

High School Romance

The romance of Mr. and Mrs. McGillis began in 1918, when they were both students at the Glendale Union High school. After their graduation Mrs. McGillis enrolled in the Southern Branch of the University of California, while her husband took a pre-medic course at the University of Southern California, and in September, 1921, entered the College of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons, attending until last February.

Since that time Mr. McGillis has been in the real estate business in Belvedere Gardens, where he and Mrs. McGillis moved into their new home yesterday.

Both Mr. and Mrs. McGillis and their families have lived in Glendale for years, and the announcement of their wedding will come as a most pleasant surprise to their wide circle of friends.

Dancer Death Jury To See Tragedy Scene

SAN DIEGO, April 11. — Will Dr. Louis L. Jacobs, on trial with his life at stake, quail or cringe when he steps over the threshold today of the "death cottage" at La Jolla, where he is accused of having murdered Fritzie Mann, the beautiful dancer? Will the tiny Blue Sea cottage conjure a vivid mental picture contrasting the blithesome "butterfly" girl as she was on many an evening when she admittedly was his gay dinner and dance companion and as she was in the troubled state which existed on the evening she is alleged to have been murdered?

The eleven men and one woman on the jury will be watching the expression on the dashing young physician's face intently when the court and all concerned with the trial go over the scenes of the tragedy today.

Close observers of the trial expect that the iron nerve of the young officer will carry him through the ordeal.

Furniture Plant Fire Loss Is $200,000

PORTLAND, Ore., April 11.—The furniture plant of Heywood Brothers & Wakefield company was gutted by fire early today. The loss will aggregate approximately $200,000.

The blaze is beleved to have started in the re-furnishing room from spontaneous combustion. It quickly spread to all parts of the brick structure and completely gutted the interior and the large stock of furniture in the warehouse.

Firemen fought the blaze for three hours before it was under control. All west side apparatus was called to the scene. Brick fire walls saved an adjoining warehouse from destruction.

Further Cuts In Gasoline Prices Being Awaited

LOS ANGELES, April 11. Oil producers and consumers of Southern California today awaited announcements from the various oil companies of further cuts in prices of gasoline.

Although the action of the larger companies in announcing a cut to 19 cents and the quick retaliation of independent concerns in cutting the price still further to 17 cents indicated a price war, officials of many of the companies refused to verify this contention.

It was estimated that the new cuts in prices will result in a saving of $32,000 a day, $224,000 a week, $960,000 a month and $11,680,000 a year to California motorists for the figuring on the number of motor vehicles registered to date this year and the average amount of gasoline used by each motorist.

POPULAR PRIEST GUEST OF HONOR

Glendalians Gather Tonight To Bid Farewell to Father O'Neill

After sixteen years of faithful service, Father James S. O'Neill, retiring pastor of the Holy Family Catholic church, will bid his Glendale friends "Farewell" tonight, when he is to be honored at a banquet and public reception at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse.

Dinner will be served to 350 at 6:30 o'clock, and the public reception will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

During the after dinner hour John Steven McGroarty will preside as toastmaster, and will introduce speakers of civic and state prominence.

The affair is predicted as one of the biggest and most popular compliments ever paid by Glendale to a departing citizen.

Veteran Church Worker

Among those who will be guests at the banquet and reception will be Mrs. John Lawson, a Glendale pioneer, and a staunch friend of Father O'Neill's since he first came here to take charge of this parish. Mrs. Lawson collected the first dollar that was subscribed to the fund for the Glendale Roman Catholic church, and she has ever shown herself to be an indefatigable worker for the advancement of the congregation and the interests of her pastor.

Minimum Wage Ruling Is Called Calamity

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The decision of the United States supreme court holding the District of Columbia minimum wage law invalid, is "nothing short of a calamity to the women workers of the country," Miss Mary Anderson, director of the women's bureau of the department of labor, declared this afternoon in a telegram to department officials here.

Miss Anderson is attending the convention of the National League of Women Voters at Des Moines, Iowa.

Tory Government in Fight for Its Life

LONDON, April 11.—The Tory government of Premier A. Bonar Law today began a fight for its life. After a consultation of cabinet members, the premier announced that the same motion upon which the government was defeated in commons last night by seven votes would be submitted again tomorrow in the form of a motion of confidence in the government. If the motion fails, it is expected the cabinet will resign.

High school students will be dismissed at 2 o'clock and the ceremonies will commence at 2:30 p. m.

Fear of Bonar Law's Downfall Worries U. S.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The threatened overthrow of the Bonar Law government in Great Britain has caused some agitation among members of the American debt funding commission with regard to the status of the contract for the payment of the $4,600,000,000 British debt to the United States, it was learned today.

Following a conference with President Harding at the White House, Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, a member of the commission, announced the commission would meet next Monday to consider the situation.

Religious Rite May Have Prompted Killing

SEATTLE, April 11.—M. Endo, who killed his wife and three children today, may have performed the hideous crime in observance of some strange Japanese religious rite, according to the belief expressed by police.

K. Katsuki, an official of the Japanese Association of North America, is being summoned by investigating officials to translate weird symbols on a card just found in the Endo home. It is thought that Endo may have feared his wife was untrue to him and that the card will solve the mystery and break down Endo's sphinx-like silence.

10 ACRES FOR NORTHWEST SCHOOL

Board Authorizes Purchase Of Site for $32,500; Discuss Program

The grammar school board of education met last night in its offices at 109A South Brand boulevard and discussed its buildings program.

The purchase of ten acres in the northwest section of the city from Lorenzo Palanconi for $32,500 was authorized. This will be a site ultimately for a new school in Glendale.

Architect George M. Lindsey of 345 North Harvey drive submitted plans for the construction of five additional classrooms and a building for a new sanitary unit at Acacia school and for three additional classrooms at the Grand View school.

Architect Alfred F. Priest, 1422 North Central avenue was selected as the architect for the addition to the Pacific school. He submitted plans for six additional class rooms, a cafeteria room and an auditorium for the Glendale Avenue Intermediate school and for three additional class rooms for the Columbus school.

The selection of architects for the Broadway, Central, Cerritos, Magnolia, Colorado and Doran schools, was deferred until the next meeting.

Official announcement of the abrogation may be expected in Washington and Tokio within a few days.

State Secretary Is Ordered Out of Ruhr

BERLIN, April 11.—State Secretary Hamm, who was arrested by the French while on his way to Essen to represent Chancellor Cuno at the funeral of the Krupp workers, returned to Berlin today under warning from the French not to try to enter the Ruhr again.

Unlike Hugo Stinnes, who was locked up in a railway box car while under detention by the French at Scharnhorst, Hamm was placed in a locked school house near Bastrop. He was later released upon orders from General De Gouette, commander-in-chief of the French, escorted to the eastern boundary of the occupied zone and warned that he would "fare worse" if he tried to enter the Ruhr again.

Ten Soviet Members Sentenced to Death

STOCKHOLM, April 11.—Ten members of the soviet Russian reparations mission to Poland have been sentenced to death, according to Moscow despatches to the newspaper Tidningen today. The details were not given. Russian secret police are reported to be making "mass arrests" in connection with the trial of Patriarch Tikhon, of the orthodox church, which will begin next Tuesday.

The commissary for agriculture at Moscow admits that Russia is threatened with famine this year fully as serious as that in 1921. Russian newspapers are avoiding the subject in order not to provoke the population.

Successful Candidates

ASA HALL

Asa Hall of 636 North Louise street interprets his election to the City Council as an expression by the citizens of Glendale of a desire for a business administration of civic affairs.

Denial was made by Mr. Hall that he expected to "turn things inside out" at the city hall. He stated this morning that he was going into the local government "to help." In the opinion of Mr. Hall, H. C. Saulsberry, present city controller, is a good man for this office.

"I shall do everything in my power to save a lot of the money which is being collected for the tax levy this year in reducing the tax levy for next year, "asserted Mr. Hall. "I certainly believe in letting the public know what is going on and how the money is being spent.

"The sewer question is one that has got to be solved and the sooner it is solved the better for Glendale. I feel that delay in this matter is hurting Glendale. Proper sewer facilities will certainly help Glendale.

"We have got to have lower transportation for Glendale. We want better transportation all over Glendale. Look at the number of people here who are not in reach of any transportation!"

"W. A. Horn, my team-mate in this election, is very conscientious and sincere. I believe we will work in perfect harmony. I hope that at least one of the three other councilmen will work with us. I want to conserve the city's finances and adjust expenses in an equitable tax levy."

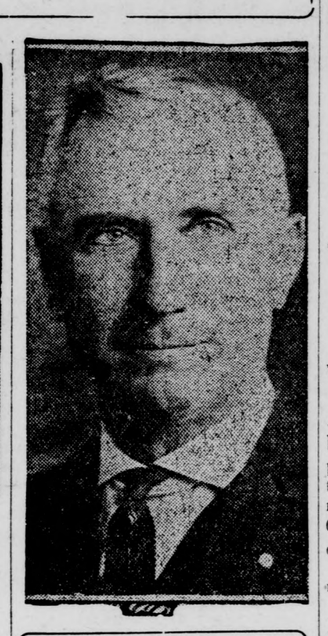
An accountant by profession, Mr. Hall in March 1921 retired from the city auditor's office in Los Angeles where he served 14 years as head bookkeeper. While there he compiled the auditor's annual report, which neither Auditor W. C. Mushet nor his successor, Auditor John S. Myers, saw until it had been published. This report received very favorable report from the Bureau of Municipal Research, and the United States Department of Commerce.

All tax levies in the city of Los Angeles during his term of office were made by Mr. Hall. His accounts involved millions of dollars.

Because of the fact that it was necessary for Mr. Hall to calculate what proportion of the bonded indebtedness of Los Angeles would have to be assumed by every municipality seeking annexation, Mr. Hall is strongly opposed to Glendale's annexation to Los Angeles.

After living in Chicago for a number of years, Mr. Hall came to Los Angeles in 1889 or thirty-four years ago. Three years later he bought an orange ranch near Azusa and organized the first orange growers' association, which built two packing houses before the Pacific Electric railway came through Covina. He came to Glendale in 1921.

For a number of years he was president of the Glendora Citrus Association and a director in the Azusa, Covina, Glendora Fruit Exchange.



W. A. HORN

W. A. Horn of 221 North Louise street regards his election to the City Council not as a personal tribute but as an expression by the citizens of Glendale of a desire for a "change" in the administration of civic affairs.

"Good constructive criticism is a very healthy thing," he remarked this morning. "That is why I like these improvement associations. They keep watch on public opinion. This is a mighty good thing for the City Council; I don't believe that the council deserves all the criticism it has gotten and yet I have not been close enough to the inside to really know. Maybe the councilmen deserved all the criticism they got and more, too.

"I believe that there are three vital things before the city administration:

"The first one is the sewer question. I believe that has to be settled soon for our future prosperity.

"The second one is the tax rate. That ought to be lowered. I think that there ought to be a general survey of municipal expenses.

"The third problem is transportation. I am in favor of better and cheaper transportation both local and interurban. Bus transportation is coming in spite of ourselves. You find no extensions of electric lines. When street car and railroad companies start bus lines themselves, you realize their importance.

Denial was made by Mr. Horn that he has any intention of going into the city administration to "overthrow things." He asserted this morning that he did not believe that this is necessary. He added, however, that he expects "to be right on the job."

"The only way to handle city business," he stated, "is just as if it were your own. If you are losing money in your private business because of the incompetency of any employe, what do you do? Why you replace him, of course!

"Asa Hall has had a lot of very valuable experience in municipal accounting. If he had not been elected, I would have been in favor of hiring him so that the city administration might have had the benefit of his experience. Now that he has been elected, we will get the benefit of this experience much cheaper. There is no doubt but he was the brains of the Los Angeles tax office."

From the time that he left high school in Buffalo, New York, where he worked his way through the three-year course by clerking in a dry goods store, Mr. Horn has been an executive. The reorganization of several Y. M. C. A.'s throughout the country are to his credit. He has been active also in the work of the Presbyterian church.

After building up a bicycle repair business in Buffalo, N. Y., into a bicycle manufacturing plant, Mr. Horn was invited to become general Y. M. C. A. secretary at Lockport, N. Y. Mr. Horn then financed the completion of a Y. M. C. A. building at Kingston-on-the-Hudson. In 1906 Mr. Horn came to California. He came to Glendale in 1921.

Cash Settlement in Field Divorce Suit

CHICAGO, April 11.—Stanley Field was free today to dispose of his millions as he chooses.

For this privilege he paid his divorced wife, Mrs. Sarah Carroll Brown Field, one of the famous "Brown sisters of Baltimore," $1,000,000, according to terms of the settlement just made public. She releases all claims to an interest in the Field estate.

AMERICAN LEGION GETS SITE; GENERAL TAXATION TO PAY LIGHTING COST

Two Councilmen-Elect Will Take Office on Next Monday Night for Terms of Four Years Each; Results In Detail

VOTERS of Glendale, 3336 out of a total registration of more than 11,200, went to the polls yesterday and elected Asa Hall and W. A. Horn to the City Council, defeated the bond issue for $49,000 for an airport, favored two of the six proposed amendments to the city charter, favored the site for the American Legion and decided in favor of paying for ornamental street lights by general taxation. Also, voters in the Glendale city school district elected two candidates to the board of education without opposition.

The successful charter amendments were those providing for the filling of vacancies in offices and relating to the qualifications for city attorney.

Mr. Hall and Mr. Horn will take office next Monday night, it was stated at the city hall this morning. Both are elected for terms for four years. They fill the places cause by the retirement of Councilmen A. H. Lapham and Dwight W. Stephenson.

Spencer Robinson, C. E. Kimlin and Sam Davis remain on the council until an election in April, 1925, according to the charter provisions.

Extends Greetings

Mayor Robinson this morning stated that, on behalf of the city administration, he extended greetings to the two successful candidates for the City Council.

"It is planned to receive Mr. Hall and Mr. Horn at the council meeting next Monday night," said Mayor Robinson. "We will canvass the votes and declare them elected. I am confident the present officials will work in harmony with the incoming councilmen."

Rain and lack of effective organization, say followers of politics, were the causes for yesterday's comparatively small vote.

As usual, The Glendale Evening News had a well-organized staff to collect returns and bulletins were posted for the benefit of the candidates and their friends, while hundreds of telephone calls were answered.

Cold Wave Sweeps Over North Pacific; Menaces Fruit Crop

SAN FRANCISCO, April 11.—An unusual cold wave for this time of the season has developed over portions of Washington, Oregon and northern California.

The United States weather bureau today predicted from light to heavy frost for the central portion of Washington, southwest portion of Oregon and northern California for early tomorrow.

Some apprehension is felt for fruit crops, inasmuch as the prediction declared light to heavy frost might be expected early tomorrow in both the Santa Clara and the Sacramento valleys.

A trough-shaped depression overlying the Rocky mountain states was declared responsible for the condition which has caused rain in California, Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico and Texas.

Shippers were advised to protect their shipments for the next 36 hours against a temperature of 25 degrees through the Sierras.

Fair weather, however, will prevail throughout California tonight and tomorrow with unsettled weather in Washington and Oregon, the weather bureau said.

REVUE TO STAGE DANCE FEATURES

Special Song Numbers Will Enliven Performance At Legion Show

One of the most beautiful specialties at the forthcoming Fun Revue will be a "Rainbow Song and Ballet," in which six of Glendale's prettiest girls, gowned in flowing costumes of rainbow colors, with rainbow head-dress, will enact charming dance formations.

The Rainbow song, says Mrs. Nanno Woods, director of the revue, is dedicated to the Rainbow division of the A. E. F. and was first produced at the Philharmonic auditorium, Los Angeles, several weeks ago.

A snappy number entitled "Fish, Fish, Fish," composed and written by Mrs. Woods, will be given by eight peppy girls, it is announced, the belief being that this number will prove a great drawing card to anglers and T. B. M's., urging, as it does, all fishermen and tired business men to "Get into your oldest clothes and fish, fish, fish!"

"Barney Google," the very latest of popular songs, will be a feature of the Fun Revue, and will be rendered by A. E. McCoubrey. This is another swingy song that lends itself easily to parody, and two handsome prizes have been offered for the best such verses submitted. Here's a sample verse:

"Barney Google with his goo-goo-googly eyes,
Barney Google is the luckiest of guys;
If he fell into the mud,
He'd come up with a diamond stud,
Barney Google with his goo-goo-googly eyes."

The parody contest is open to everybody, it is announced. Send in your verses at once to the Contest Editor, Glendale Evening News, care of the Glendale Community Players. Prize-winners will be declared at the show, which is to be given the nights of Thursday and Friday, April 19 and 20, in the Tuesday Afternoon club auditorium, for the benefit of the Glendale American Legion building fund. RECOGNITION OF DR. SUN REFUSED

Britain Unable to Complete Commercial Pact With Canton Government

By F. A. WRAY
For International News Service

LONDON, April 11.—While Dr. Sun Yat Sen's south China government at Canton has succeeded in obtaining a $10,000,000 loan from British capitalists to rebuild the municipal railway system, Great Britain will not extend recognition to the Canton administration, it was learned at the foreign office today.

Officials refused comment upon reports from Washington that the British had been putting out "feelers" to ascertain how other powers would regard recognition. It was pointed out that, under the agreements reached at Washington, Great Britain is unable to negotiate a commercial treaty with Canton. Such negotiations, it is certain, would call forth protests from the signatories of the four-power pact.

It is admitted by officials that British financial interests are working in close relationship wth Sun Yat Sen and have extended other loans in addition to the $10,000,000 for rebuilding the city tramway system but officials point out these operations have no government connection. They are commercial transactions by lenders who have confidence in the Canton administration.

Great Britain's attitude towards South China is friendly but unofficial. British officials say that, if adherents of Sun Yat Sen in the United States have made it appear that Great Britain is about to recognize the Canton government, this attitude must be accepted merely as a gesture designed to arouse the interest of the United States government in South China.

BITTER HATE IS EUROPE'S BURDEN

Task of Uprooting Fear and Suspicion Calls for Man of Genius

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service

LONDON, April 11.—Europe needs a Billy Sunday!

A great emotional upheaval which would bury centuries of old hates, would probably do more good in settling European affairs than any other possible single force.

Europe's sadly complicated condition is probably due more to hate, fear and suspicion than to other more tangible elements.

Until Europe ceases its hating and its suspicion, it is going to continue in a state of unrest and upheaval. It will take a tremendously powerful man to bring an end to this hating, and perhaps he should not be a statesman, after all.

The kindly and philosophical David Lloyd George has tried to make Europe forget the past. His successes, however, were only temporary.

Premier Bonar Law has tried a psychological cure by talking and suggesting "peace and tranquility." But Europe has not taken to the cure. Premier Mussolini of Italy has attempted to bring it to reason by stern frowns. The frowns have not scared Europe into peace yet.

Efforts Fail

Premier Theunis of Belgium and Premier Benin of Czecho-Slovakia have striven by quite peaceful means to argue and cajole the nations of Europe into loving their neighbors. Their efforts have been laudable, but can hardly be called successful. Even Tchitcherin and Trotzky, of the Russian soviets, have made a few suggestions for the future peace of Europe, but these have been swept away without getting even serious consideration.

Most of the statesmen of the world have had their fling at pacifying Europe. They have failed. It begins to appear that the job is not one of diplomatic pacification. There is something deeper and that something is hate.

Uprooting the hates of Europe is the big task that awaits some big man.

The man who can make the nations forget the past and start with a clean slate will be the man who will be heralded as the greatest benefactor who has walked the earth in the past thousand years.

In weather like this it is difficult to sympathize with the poor in Europe who have no clothes.

LEGION PLEASED AT VOTE RESULT

Glendale Voters Thanked by Commander of Local Organization

Glendale Legionnaires today are rejoicing at the result of yesterday's election.

"Post No. 127 desires to thank, whole-heartedly, its host of friends for the splendid support given Proposition No. Seven," stated Commander Chalmer D. Day this morning. "The ratio of better than three to one proves conclusively that the people of Glendale are back of the men now that they backed in 1917 and 1918 as well as all other patriotic organizations.

"Our effectiveness as an organization will be stimulated to very high degree. We again pledge our sincerest service as we put into practice the principles and purposes of our organization as expressed in the preamble to our constitution.

"Our plans for the future have not been outlined yet as all of our time in the immediate past has been devoted to getting Proposition No. 7 before the people. Now that this has been definitely and unmistakably approved, our plans will soon take definite form.

Tax Cut Inexpedient, Smoot Tells Harding

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Senator Reed Smoot, Utah, ranking Republican member of the senate finance committee, today advised President Harding that reduction of income taxes in the next session of congress would be "inexpedient."

Smoot agreed, however, that if decreases were decided upon they should apply all along the line rather than to sur-tax only.

WAGE RULING IS AROUSING WOMEN

Court's Decision Is Called First Return Step to Sweat Shop Days

By SONIA LEE
For International News Service

DES MOINES, April 11.—Women leaders of the nation, meeting on their second day of the fourth annual convention of the National League of Women Voters, relegated to secondary place the business of the league and discussed the sweeping decision of the United States supreme court that the minimum wage law in the District of Columbia was unconstitutional.

A sub-surface activity is evident. Resolutions on the decision are being considered. Women closely allied with the industrial welfare of the country are conferring in the corridors of the convention hall on ways and means to minimize the depressing effect the supreme court decision will have on the morale and standard of living of the workers.

Mary Anderson, chief of the women's bureau of the department of labor, was pessimistic as to the "future progress of the country in the light of reactionary decision of the supreme court."

Back to Sweat Shop

"This decision," she said, "marks the return of America to those days when girls were working for $3 a week.

"None who know conditions under which women workers existed in those dark days of starvation wages can question the seriousness of this situation.

"We will return to the sweat shop system. Again we shall have the horrible housing conditions, the unfed working girl, the depletion of the strength of potential mothers.

"This automatic reduction of women's wages cannot but have a depressing effect upon men's wages. More children will return to factories that the family may exist.

Progress Halted

"This marks the eradication of the progress we have made in the past decade in humanitarianism.

"There is no relief in sight for the working women. The situatian is hopeless. The decision definitely prohibits the passage of minimum wage laws in any state."

"Only one remedy presents itself," said Elice K. McFarland, director of the women's work under the Kansas court of industrial relations, "and that is that women organize into trade unions.

"The action of the supreme court is a calamity. It will increase strikes and industrial unrest. Low wages will increase immorality and retard progress."

"We will not evacuate the Ruhr until after complete payment of reparations by Germany."

The premier will speak at the dedication of a monument to war dead.

THREE MEN HELD IN LIQUOR RAID

Exclusive Hollywood Home Yields Gin and Label Making Plant

LOS ANGELES, April 11.—In a surprise liquor raid early today on a palatial home in Chula Vista avenue, Hollywood's most exclusive residential district, police arrested three men and confiscated a large quantity of gin and "fake bottle paraphernalia."

The three men, J. H. Keefe, J. W. Martin and Frank Agnew, were immediately linked by Prohibition Agent in Charge H. H. Dolley with the liquor case in which the name of Jack Pickford, motion picture actor, became prominent recently, when it was learned the men were arrested in an automobile registered to D. L. Lerner, one of the men under arrest in the Pickford case.

Thirty-four quarts of synthetic gin, which the officers said was placed in bottles to make it appear as though the liquor had been imported, and a large quantity of fake "booze" label manufacturing materials were also taken in the raid, the officers said.

According to Patrolmen House and Lisner, who made the raid, the label material seized was the most elaborate ever taken in this city and the finished and bottled product could not be detected from bonded liquor by an expert.

According to Dolley, his agents have been trying for some time to locate Lerner's automobile, believing they would find other members of the alleged liquor ring using it for their operations

DISORDERS OCCUR

LONDON, April 11.—Disorders of such violence as to compel an hour's suspension broke out in the house of commons this afternoon during debate on the government's defeat on a technical motion last night. Laborite members stormed and shouted at their opponents! The noise was so great that speakers could not be heard. Finally J. H. Whitley ordered an hour's recess so that order could be restored.

Collector Goodcell Champion Guesser

Washington treasury officials have listed Collector of Internal Revenue Rex Goodcell as the champion guesser of the United States.

On March 16, the day after the income tax drive, the treasury department wired Collector Goodcell asking for a report on all income tax receipts that had been deposited in bank and also an estimate on the amount of money on hand in the unopened mail.

It was easy for the collector to furnish figures on the money he had deposited, but to determine how much money was contained in a ton of unopened mail was another thing. However, by a method all his own, Collector Goodcell decided there was $5,225,000 in the unopened mail. So he wired Washington that the total income tax receipts for the first quarter would be $13,055,000, as against $10,802,507 for the same period of 1922.

Yesterday the last of the ton of mail was opened, and listed, and the final check of the receipts for the quarter showed a total of $13,062,346.62, as compared with Collector Goodcell's estimate of $13,055,000, a difference of only $7,000 on a $13,000,000 turnover.

Some guesser is that man Goodcell, Washington officials say.

Standard Quits in Oil Price Warfare

PITTSBURGH, April 11.—The "war" between the Standard Oil and the Northern Pennsylvania independents in the form of bidding up crude oil prices was called off today. Standard Oil hoisted the "white flag" by lowering its prevailing prices on best eastern grades in the majority of cases from 25 to 35 cents a barrel.

English Porter Dies Leaving Big Fortune

LONDON, April 11.—Life in domestic service seems to be a profitable occupation in England. Recently a London butler died leaving a fortune of over $50,000, and now a hotel porter has left a will revealing a fortune of $130,000.

The butler was a former employe of the late Lord Marcus Beresford, but the porter was just Thomas Henry Cleave, an ordinary employe at the Lord Warden hotel, Dover, and the announcement that he had left such a large fortune has caused great surprise in his native town of Kings Cliffe, where he was known as the "Mystery Man," due to his general reticence about matters concerning himself.

It was believed by his townsfolk that he had retired on a small income, based mainly on his tips as a porter, but it was revealed in his will that he had bought a great deal of real estate while at Dover, owned several apartment houses at Kings Cliffe and was in partnership with a bookmaker.

He retired from portering in 1896, when he was nearly sixty, and from that date until his death he lived in great simplicity in a small cottage, being very careful in money matters and reserved in manner. This strengthened the local impression that his means were limited.

He had no relatives, and the will disposes of his money in nineteen bequests, including $500 each to thirteen people in his native town.

MONTROSE

NEW DRUG STORE WILL OPEN SOON

$27,000 Investment Goes Into Shop and Equipment At Montrose

Construction work began yesterday upon the new drug store in Montrose. This will be located on the northwest corner of Montrose and Honolulu avenues, and will be operated by Theodore Belanger and his son, Joseph Belanger.

Plans for the new building, which were prepared by William K. Dunlap of 213 West Broadway, call for a handsome one-story structure of concrete faced with stucco and with an ornamental front of tile. Display windows will face both Honolulu and Montrose avenue. The cost of the edifice will be about $8,000.

Contractor Frank Howard of 327 Briggs street stated yesterday that the building will be completed in about sixty days—provided there are no more rains like yesterday.

The interior of the building will be divided into two stores. The drug store entrance will be at the corner. This establishment will be 24 by 51 feet in size. The store adjoining it to the west, which will be leased, will have a frontage of 20 feet on Honolulu avene and a depth of 51 feet.

Soda Fountain

Fixtures of the drug store will be of gum wood and a liquid-carbonic soda fountain will be installed. It is estimated that the fixtures will cost about $3,500, while the stock will be worth about $4,500.

"I may as well put up a modern store," remarked Theodore Belanger yesterday afternoon. "I may be a little ahead of the time, but I think there is a future here."

Although Mr. Belanger is a newcomer in this vicinity, he has unbounded confidence in the future of Montrose. He has purchased property in Sparr Heights and expects to make his home there permanently. He has spent the last three years in Long Beach. Previous to that time he lived in Detroit, Michigan, where he was in the drug business for about twenty-five years.

$27,000 Investment

Ten thousand dollars is the valuation placed by Theodore Belanger upon the property which has a frontage of about fifty feet on Montrose avenue and about fifty feet on Honolulu avenue. He estimated that the value of the total investment will be in the neighborhood of $27,000.

Joseph Belanger, who probably will be in active charge of the drug store, is a recent graduate of the University of Southern California. Both he and his father are registered pharmacists. Although the new store will not be ready for business until the middle of June, this firm has taken a membership in the Montrose Chamber of Commerce already and expects to take an active interest in the development of the community.

Proof that realty values are soaring in Montrose is contained in a telegram received yesterday by C. P. Cook of the Howard Merwin Realty Company. The message was from H. N. Fowler of Chicago and instructed him not to sell property having a frontage of 175 feet on Honolulu avenue and 250 feet on Los Angeles avenue for $35,000 cash—because the price is too low.

USE WASTE FROM ORANGES, LEMONS

Process to Utilize Culls Effects Big Saving, Experts Claim

WASHINGTON, April 11—Utilization of the culled oranges and lemons of California, through a process developed by the bureau of chemistry of the department of agriculture, is saving fruit growers thousands of dollars annually.

This information was made public recently, with a description of methods of manufacturing citric acid, citrate of lime and other by-products from fruit unfit for shipment to eastern markets.

Value Increased

Before orange and lemon culls had an extensive commercial use they were sold for from $3 to $5 a ton. The price now ranges from $25 to $30 a ton, the department of agriculture said.

A laboratory was established some time ago at Los Angeles to begin the study of utilizing the waste fruit. The methods of Italian manufacturers who produced lime and citric acid from culled fruit were first investigated, but it was discovered the extensive human labor used in the Italian process made production too costly.

By improved machinery a way was developed to reduce human labor to a minimum and to produce sufficiently cheap to compete with the Italians.

Growing Industry

Several private corporations are now engaged in lime and acid manufacturing in California.

Among the other by-products are lemon oil, widely used in toilet preparations, jellies, candied skin of oranges and lemons, fruit juices and other food products.

Agricultural department chemists will continue their studies of culled fruit in the west and are expected to develop utilization of apples and grapes, adapting foreign methods to American necessities and seeking by-products not already known.

EAGLE ROCK

L. A. WILL RETAIN CITY'S EMPLOYES

Council's Resolution Calls For Retention of Men In Present Jobs

Eagle Rock city employes will be retained in their positions, following consolidation with Los Angeles, "whenever and wherever such retention is advisable," according to a resolution received by the Eagle Rock Board of Trustees, from the Los Angeles "city fathers."

The text of the resolution proper, which in the official manuscript is preceded by several paragraphs of "whereas," is given below:

"Resolved, that it be the sense of this council that those employes who were employed by the city of Eagle Rock at the time of its consolidation, be retained in the employ of the city of Los Angeles wherever and whenever such retention is advisable and to the best interests of the city, and the civil service commission be requested to place said employes on the eligible list and the various departments of the city government be instructed to retain said employes at the work which they are now performing, and the city attorney and efficiency director be instructed to amend the salary ordinances of the various departments to cover said employment."

In view of the fact that Los Angeles holds its general election June 1, a committee of citizens representing the Eagle Rock Chamber of Commerce appeared before the Board of Trustees at its meeting Monday night, and recommended that City Clerk B. B. Martsolf be instructed to file with the Los Angeles City Council a certificate embodying the result of the recent canvass of the annexation vote.

The board adopted the suggestion and requested the city clerk so to do, and Mr. Martsolf reports that the certificate was filed Tuesday morning, April 19, with City Clerk Robert Dominguez, of Los Angeles.

To Have May Queen

Plans for Eagle Rock to have a May carnival and elect a "queen" are now actively under way, as a result of a permit granted by the board of trustees.

The affair is being arranged under the auspices of the American Legion auxiliary, and one of the preliminary features will be balloting for the queen, on Friday and Saturday, April 27 and 28, in connection with a candy sale to be held at the "Mystic Circle," corner of Colorado and Central, recently constructed by the board as a rest station.

The carnival itself will be held the night of May 5, and will be one of the gayest nights in Eagle Rock history, according to Mrs. Ethel C. Reed, secretary of the Legion auxiliary.

Mrs. Reed, in making the application for permit to conduct this affair, stated to the board that the funds raised were to go into the Legion auxiliary fund.

Contracts Let

The contract for the improvement of Florida way and Lucile way was awarded to Peter L. Ferry of Glendale, at the price bid, $11,315.72.

The contract for improving the grounds of the city hall was awarded to J. M. Grant, of Eagle Rock, at the price bid, $649.

The contract for guttering the east side of Valley drive has not yet been let. Bids have been received from Peter L. Ferry and C. C. Walker, and have been turned over to the city engineer for tabulation. The contract will be let at the meeting of next Monday night, April 16.

City Engineer T. A. Jordan was instructed to put under way the grading of College View avenue between Sycamore and Mariposa avenues.

The ordinance for fixing and establishing curb lines on Montiflora avenue, and establishing grade lines thereon, passed its first reading.

The matter regarding the legality of the water way as between Hill avenue, its original source, and the proposed diversion to Hartwick street, was referred to City Attorney R. L. McNitt for advisement and will be reconsidered at the next meeting.

Petition of Protest

A petition, signed by forty-eight citizens of Eagle Rock, was received by the board of trustees at their meeting on Monday night, in which petition it was set forth that a certain sanitarium being conducted at 326 West Adams avenue, is in violation of the city ordinance concerning such matters.

The board instructed the city attorney and health officer to make a joint investigation of said sanitarium and report at the next meeting.

This afternoon, April 11, the Federated Parent-Teacher Association of Eagle Rock met in the auditorium of the Central avenue school, with Mrs. Archibald, chairman of the parents' reading committee, the principal speaker.

STOCK OF LLOYD GEORGE BOOSTED

Ex-Premier Watched Closely by Political Experts Of Britain

By DAVID M. CHURCH

For International News Service

LONDON, April 11—"Keep an eye on Lloyd George."

That is the advice that is now going around in the wise political circles in London.

Since the little Welshman left No. 10 Downing street his stock has fluctuated wildly. At one time they were placing bets that he would be back in office within six months; later everyone predicted that "Lloyd George is through." Now his stock is on the upward trend again.

Everyone expects that Lloyd George is going to stage a miracle that will put him back in power.

Meanwhile the redoubtable little politician holds his silence.

"I feel like the boy who has just been birched and is getting a little consolation out of standing by and watching the next victim getting his taste of the rod and getting it in very strong doses," Lloyd George said, when he had been more or less pressed, in the hope that he might disclose his future plans.

The ex-premier smiled and let his remark sink in and then added: "I have been enjoying myself thoroughly." He smiled again, his eyes twinkled, and the vigor that seemed so apparent, the spirit back of those twinkling eyes all seemed to predict that the ex-premier does not intend to always be an "ex."

Waits His Time

Lloyd George is just in his prime. His vacation from office has given him opportunity to rest and restore his jaded nerves. He is far from a defeated man. He rather impresses one as a man who is merely marking time waiting for the psychological moment preparatory to jumping into the fight again.

Bonar Law's government has met with difficulties. Its future seems uncertain to say the least. The English public opinion is veering and shifting, and when it settles down to a steady blow there are probabilities that it will not blow in the Bonar Law direction. Bonar Law has not had "peace and tranuility." His regime has been one of great nervousness for the people. His foreign policy has not been as disturbing as the domestic policy. Persistent cartooning of Bonar Law asleep has had its effect upon the people, despite the fact that Law has been a hard worker, but his work has been chiefly study.

There are many who believe that the English people have been educated up to an appreciation of spectacles and fireworks and that they miss these fireworks in the Bonar Law administration. If they do there is only one English statesman who can furnish them with the necessary pyrotechnics, and that is Lloyd George.

"Keep an eye on Lloyd George" is excellent advice.

BURBANK

PROTESTS DELAY WORK ON STREET

Boundaries of Assessment District Are Main Objections

Continued protests against the proposed improvement of Sixth and Eighth streets have again blocked the work there, complaints centering on the boundaries of the assessment district, which are not acceptable to all.

A petition signed by seventy-seven residents and property owners on Palm avenue, asking that heavy traffic be prohibited on this roadway, was submitted to the trustees, who turned it down with the explanation that by Palm avenue only could the gravel pits be reached, necessary, to the improvement of Magnolia avenue.

F. S. Moore, principal of the high school, states that he has received word Dr. Rufus B. Von Klein Smid will be in Burbank in June to deliver the graduation address to the seniors. This is indeed a honor, as Dr. Von Klein Smid is one of the foremost educators of the country, now president of the University of Southern California, former president of the University of Arizona.

Many Clubs Meet

The current events section of the Women's club, recently organized to study citizenship subjects, met last Saturday afternoon and discussed the topic, "The City We Live In."

Mrs. Cora Clark's topic was "Form of Government"; that of Mrs. H. R. Coburn, "Citizens' Part in Government"; Mrs. Charles Wilson, "Efficiency in City Government"; Mrs. Irving Sherlock, "Replanning Small Cities," and Miss Jane Thompson "Width and Arrangement of Streets."

The meeting proved very interesting, the discussion being of a most stimulating nature.

There will be another meeting held in April and two in May. The same topic will be discussed in the second April meeting, while the topic for May will be "The State." In June the topic is announced as "The Nation."

Following this June program will come the annual summer vacation of the club.

The current events section plans to place in the library a shelf of books available for the use of members and others interested in the topics of the day—copies of school laws and legislative bills, and groups of books from other libraries are promised a position on the shelf from time to time.

Eastern Star Banquet

The recent celebration of the fourth birthday anniversary of the Burbank chapter of the Masonic order of the Eastern Star was a big success, over a hundred covers being laid at the fine banquet provided at the Sunset Canyon Country club.

The decorations were in gorgeous bunches of spring flowers, with favors in harmony with the color scheme, making for a beautiful effect.

Music was furnished by Mrs. Peterson, who rendered a group of songs accompanied by Lesta Davidson.

Mrs. A. W. Reese, past worthy matron, was chairman and toastmaster; and among the guests of honor were Mrs. Ellen La Fontaine, grand associate conductress; Mrs. Jennie Wilcox, district deputy grand matron, and Mrs. Maude Bezell Bradley, past grand matron, all of Los Angeles.

Following the banquet, Bridge and Five Hundred were played at twenty tables.

The brilliant success of the affair was due largely to Mrs. Reese and her committee; Mrs. Faith Storey, Mrs. Olive Mulvey and Mrs. Anna Lewis, past worthy matrons, and George Thedaker and Sidney King, past worthy patrons.

Last Friday night the faculty of the Progressive School of Music gave a delightful public concert at the Edison school, with the following among the numbers on the program:

Opening number, Grace Lovejoy and Marion Shaley, two-piano number; Dr. V. P. Ervin, accompanied by Mrs. Ervin, flute and saxophone solos; Vera B. Morrow, piano selections; Paul Kent and Marion Shaley, vocal solos and duet; Grace Lovejoy, Gladys Schoor and H. M. Davis, trio with violin, piano and violoncello.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Price recently returned from a trip to the Imperial Valley with a most unusual assortment of fancy cacti and desert plants picked up en route.

They have planted the curious assortment in their yard on Poinsettia avenue for observation. If they prosper and behave themselves, these armed and aggressive plants will find a home on the grounds of the Edison school.

One thing is certain, in the opinion of the neighbors, and that is that the Price lawn looks either like a giant pincushion or a miniature Mojave desert, and that it would be an extremely dangerous place for a stray cat or dog to wander.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 11.—Manager Lee Fohl, of the St. Louis Browns, today denied that he had ever said that George Sisler, star first baseman, would or would not be able to play again. Sisler at present is in St. Louis treating his eyes, which have botherd him since his attack of influenza.

Fohl said he was counting strongly on Sid Durst, young infielder, to fill Sisler's place.

Sisler said today he would withhold his statement until after the operation.

G. O. P.: "Now Run Away, Boys, There's Going To Be No Core To Warren's Apple." By Morris

Frederick Warde, Veteran Actor, Tuesday Club Guest, Tells Of Life On Stage

TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB members are unanimous in the decision that the regular meeting of the club yesterday afternoon in the clubhouse was the most spirited and pleasurable gathering of the organization this year.

The new auditorium was practically filled and the meeting was featured by the formal announcement that the 1924 convention of the Los Angeles District Federation of Women's clubs will be held in Glendale, with the Tuesday Afternoon club as host; the presentation of Mrs. Charles H. Toll, president-elect of the Los Angeles District Federation, by Mrs. Daniel Campbell and response by Mrs. Toll; and an address by Frederick Warde, veteran actor, "Fifty Years of Make-Believe."

It was well on to 5 o'clock when the club women left the club house and expressions of commendation on the splendid meeting were heard on every hand.

Makes Announcements

The usual hour of community singing, led by Hugo Kirchhofer opened the afternoon, and was followed by a regular meeting of the club, presided over by Mrs. Daniel Campbell, president.

During the meeting hour there were numerous announcements and reports of great importance and interest to the club women.

Mrs. Campbell made special mention of the twenty-second annual convention, May 1 to 4, of the California Federation of Women's clubs at Eureka, in Humboldt county, expressing the hope that the Tuesday Afternoon club will send an even larger delegation than attended the district convention.

She also told of the district presidents' council, to be held April 19 at Santa Monica. Mrs. Campbell is to be accompanied to the council by the following members of her board: Mesdames A. H. Montgomery, A. M. Hunt, Frank C. Ayars, A. P. Findlay, John C. Dunn, C. W. Houston, John Robert White and H. E. Bartlett.

Applaud Mrs. Toll

Another feature of the meeting was the announcement of the appointment by the official board of two members to serve on the election board for the annual election, and the election of three additional members from the floor. At the board meeting Monday, Mrs. Frank C. Ayars was appointed chairman, and Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward a committee member. The three members elected yesterday afternoon by the club were Mesdames Homer Lockwood, H. Lee Clotworthy and Julian Hayward.

The presentation of Mrs. Tool inspired hearty applause from the club company. She was escorted to the platform by Mrs. C. W. Houston, second vice-president, and was presented by Mrs. Campbell with an appreciative speech expressing the high esteem in which she is held by the club members.

In response Mrs. Toll complimented the club on the new club house, paid tribute to Mrs. Campbell's ability and poise as president and expressed hopes for success and happiness in fulfilling her duties as district president.

It was during the meeting that Mrs. Campbell called all club members and guests to rise and stand in silence in memory of Mrs. Eugene C. Frank, honorary member, whose death occurred since the last meeting.

Announces Gifts

In announcing gifts Mrs. Campbell stated that beautifully made luncheon sets had been made and presented to the club by Mrs. Lillian Dow, patriotic chairman. The linen is for the tables in the Italian tea room and are made of lemon colored linen with black and orange borders and decorated with embroidery to harmonize with the hangings in the room.

Another gift announced is a 101 Radiant Fire Heater for the fireplace in the lounge room, a gift from the Southern California Gas company.

It has been the decision of the club board to limit the use of the lounge room for reception purposes for club members. Mrs Campbell stated that it is the desire of the officers and members to keep this room in perfect condition, to be used informally by club members. Therefore a heavy cord will be kept across the door and other rooms in the clubhouse be used for card affairs.

Another plea was made for auditorium chairs, it being announced that 450 of the 763 have been purchased at $5 a piece.

Following the suggestion made at the San Luis Obispo convention, Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward has been appointed to represent the Tuesday Afternoon club in affairs in the interests of ex-service men.

Comprehensive reports of the recent convention were given by Mesdames A. H. Montgomery, W. E. Evans and C. J. Gans, who accompanied Mrs. Campbell north.

Frederick Warde Guest

Entertaining Frederick Warde as honored guest and speaker provided the finest and most enjoyable program enjoyed this year by the club. Mr. Warde's appearance brought forth prolonged applause and an atmosphere of enjoyment that was evident during his entire address.

Veteran actor, scholar and cultured gentleman, Mr. Warde in his own inimitable way took his hearers back across the last half century to his first appearance behind the footlights in a little theatre in a seaport town in the north of England, where he was only a "sub" playing the second murderer in "Macbeth" at fifteen shillings a week.

After seven years of experience in his native country he came to America, making his initial appearance in 1874 on the stage of Booth's theatre in New York. This was the beginning of a great career, which has placed him among the great artists of the stage and won him laurels as a world-praised tragedian.

He related incidents of his associations with such stars as John McCullough, Charlotte Cushman, Adelaide Neilsen, Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett and Louis James. The final personage he mentioned was Douglas Fairbanks, whom he first met as a high school boy in Denver, Colorado.

"The land of make believe is not only a world of make believe but a world of stern reality and without the commercialization of art, art could not live," were the two outstanding thoughts that Mr. Warde left with his hearers.

Gives Violin Solo

At the close of Mr. Warde's address a violin solo by Miss Hazel Linkogel, was enjoyed. She was accompanied by her sister Mrs. Pearl Curran. Miss Linkogel's talent is keenly appreciated wherever she appears, and her playing yesterday was preceded by the announcement by Mrs. Campbell that Miss Linkogel is hoping to go to Chicago shortly to take part in a contest that may result in her winning a scholarship for further study with nationally known masters.

The food sale held yesterday under the direction of Mrs. Colin Cable added $8.60 to the ways and means treasury.

The next club meeting will be Reciprocity Day, with a noon luncheon, at which the club will entertain 340 guests from clubs in all parts of the Los Angeles district.

Following the luncheon there will be a public reception and musical entertainment.

Mrs. Campbell announced that because of the numerous guests from other clubs, Tuesday Afternoon club members are asked not to use guest cards at the meeting.

McCormack's Auto Is Wrecked in Collision

H. S. McCormack, vice chairman of the publicity committee of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. McCormack narrowly escaped injury last night when an automobile driven by Miss Jo V. Lambert, 315 Lissner Building, Los Angeles, crashing into their car on South Raymond avenue, Pasadena, while they were en route to Los Angeles to attend the theatre. The McCormack car, it is stated, had cleared the car tracks by several feet after crossing the street when the Lambert automobile struck it, wrecking it and causing Mr. and Mrs. McCormack to postpone their trip to Los Angeles. None of the parties in the collision were injured. Mr. McCormack claims that Miss Lambert was traveling at an excessive rate of speed at the time of the crash.

New Landing Gear to Prevent Plane Crash

LONDON, April 11.—An aeroplane under-carriage that is practically "uncrushable" is the latest product of the aircraft inventors' genius.

The new landing gear looks to the uninitiated like any ordinary two-wheeled under-carriage, but it is fitted with a highly ingenious system of electro-pneumatic cylinders, which prevent accidents even when the machine is being landed by the "freshest" pilot.

A test of the new invention's possibilities absolutely proved its effectiveness. The test pilot deliberately lost his flying speed and let the machine drop to earth from a height of twenty feet or so in a way which would have smashed any ordinary under-carriage, but the new gear absorbed the shock unhurt, even bouncing.

Nothing short of landing "nose" first is expected to damage any aeroplane fitted with this type of under-carriage.

It Looks Democratic, Asserts Stephenson

Dwight W. Stephenson of 327 West Cypress street, City Councilman returned home yesterday from Phoenix, Arizona, where he went on a two day trip pertaining to legal business.

"I was mighty glad to get back into California and Glendale," said Mr. Stephenson, "because I wanted to vote in the municipal election."

"It looks like the next national administration will be Democratic. Why? Well, look at the local election results. The people seem to be voting against the government!"

Predicts Big Era Of U. S. Prosperity

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 11.—"Prices will begin to fall gradually after one more year, as the natural after-war effect," declared David R. Friday, president of Michigan Agricultural college, addressing a local audience. Predicting prosperity for the United States, President Friday said that wages are twice as high as before the war, while the cost of living is 65 per cent higher.

"People don't have to act as servants in the present age," continued President Friday. "They can make more money at some other occupation. That is democracy. It has been brought about by America's industrial revolution, of which we were unconscious until the war called it to our attention.

"Before the war economists could prove conclusively that this country could not possibly devote more than $4,000,000,000 a year for the purposes of carrying on a war. Upon our entry into the conflict, however, we took 3,000,000 men from productive occupations and turned them into soldiers and manufactured $15,000,000,000 worth of supplies for military purposes.

"We did not realize we had had an industrial revolution. The foundation of this revolution lay in our taking science and applying it to industry. Further, economists have revolutionized business management, banking and taxation. America has added as much produced wealth to her resources since 1897 as in the entire period before that time. That is why we have a surplus. That is the reason we could deflect so many men and so much wealth to martial purposes," said President Friday.

Evangelist Scores Women's Long Tongues

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, April 11.—"A long tongue is an unfortunate possession when there is a vacant spot just behind the eyeballs," declared Evangelist F. Lincicome, addressing a local audience. "Some women have tongues as long as that of a cow," he continued. "A cow can stand on one side of a fence and lick her calf on the other side. Some women can sit in their parlors and lick their neighbor's four squares away.

"It is up to young ladies to give us a better brand of young men by raising the standard for them. One of the perils of young manhood in America today is that there is not any standard being raised for them on the part of young women," Evangelist Lincicome said.

"When our young women put the standard up where it belongs we can combat with the social evils that are running our cities."

To find out how good a man is give him a trial. We are ready for the test. Fred Minden, 322 East Broadway, Merchant Tailor.—Advertisement1moeod

Students Revolt at Prescribed Reading

HARTFORD, Conn., April 11—Trinity college students, definitely revolting against prescribed reading and weary of the long grind, "down town" to the public library have organized a library of their own. No professional supervision over the books will be permitted. The students have pre-empted a turret room in ancient Seabury hall and have equipped it with books, chairs, tables, lamps and shelves, thus compelling a class to evacuate its quarters. So eager were the students of this Protestant Episcopal college for such library that they donated all their cash to the enterprise.

California Has Over Half U. S. Wine Supply

LOS ANGELES, April 11—Over half of the wine supply in the United States was in California at the end of last year, according to statistics prepared by the office of R. B. Goodcell, Collector of Internal Revenue for this district. According to the figures, the total wine supply for the United States was 37,047,290 gallons, and of this amount 20,800,000 gallons were in California.

California, however, the report shows, had a much smaller supply of whiskey, gin and other hard liquor. Despite the fact that large quantities of wine have been extracted from the California warehouses and sent East.

TODAY—San Francisco is making a bid for both the G. O. P. and Democratic conventions in 1924, writes Ellis H. Martin. A number of other conventions also are scheduled for San Francisco in the Spring.

TOMORROW—A condemned slayer awaits, in Kansas, the outcome of a court battle to decide whether or not the state's anti-capital punishment bill really has been repealed or is still a law.

By ELLIS H. MARTIN
For International News Service

SAN FRANCISCO, April 11.—A citizens' committee of twenty-five appointed by Mayor Rolph is busy devising ways and means to bring both Democratic and Republican national conventions to San Francisco in 1924.

Considerable preliminary work has been done by individuals toward obtaining one or the other of the two great national conventions. Republican National Chairman William H. Crocker has already expended considerable personal effort in lining up support within the G. O. P. national committee in favor of San Francisco as the 1924 convention city.

Democratic leaders, recalling their pleasant visit here in 1920, are said to be favorably inclined toward returning to San Francisco next year. However, Cleveland, St. Louis, Chicago and Minneapolis are hot after the national committees of both parties and are using an argument with Democratic leaders that it would not be good policy to hold the convention as far west twice in succession, according to information received here.

The San Francisco committee will offset this argument with the claim of better convention facilities and more favorable temperature than usually obtains in the eastern cities. The committee plans to get actively into the convention competition in the near future, and it is possible that representatives will be chosen and sent on a swing around the country to enlist support among party leaders.

Supervisor Walter Shannon has just returned from a trip to Washington on which the convention project was uppermost in his mind. He declared upon his return that he found a considerable sentiment among newspaper men and political leaders favorable to the Golden Gate city as the 1924 political gathering place. He advocated the immediate raising of a fund of $250,000 for advertising and publicity purposes to foster the drive for the big conventions.

Should either of the 1924 conventions come to San Francisco it is a possibility that native son candidates will figure in the balloting. If the Republican convention should come here the possibility exists that Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, may again be in the Presidential list. And should the Democratic conclave return the possibility exists that William G. McAdoo, whose name was a battle point in the 1920 convention, may again be a central figure. McAdoo since the last convention has come to California to live and is rapidly extending his business and professional influence in Southern California, where he makes his home.

Speaking of conventions, preparations are under way for the gathering here late this Fall of the American Legion hosts. The Legion conventions get bigger and better in every way, say Legion leaders, and from plans under way the gathering here in October will be the "best yet." In point of attendance it is expected to smash all Legion records, and the former Doughboys are in for the time of their lives, as the entertainment committee has its plans under way.

Medical men from all over the United States are coming in June for the annual convention of the American Medical Association. A dozen allied conventions have been scheduled for the same week and advance registration indicates the hotel facilities will be taxed to care for all who have signified thier intention of coming. Although the medical men's gathering will be given over largely to scientific discussion of the advance in medicine and surgery, the entertainment side will not be overlooked and an elaborate programme has been planned.

In July the bay region will be the mecca for educators of the nation. The National Education Association will gather in Oakland. Indications are that this will be one of the biggest conventions in point of attendance ever held on the Pacific Coast, with the possible exception of the Shriners' gatherings. The 1923 convention is regarded by educators as the most important held in years because of the problems that are faced. Elaborate plans are under way in Oakland and San Francisco for this gathering.

Germany Prepared to Negotiate, Says Cuno

BERLIN, April 11.—"Germany is ready to negotiate as an equal, but the object of the negotiations must be lasting peace and freedom," declared Chancellor Wilhelm Cuno, in an address today in the Reichstak during a memorial service for the Krupp workers killed by the French at Essen. Chancellor Cuno continued:

"The German earth in which the dead are being laid at Essen must be free from enemies."

German territory and German constitutional rights must remain unimpaired.

"The Essen victims sympolize German suffering. Their only crime was in wanting to be Germans. Not obedient tools—meaning soldiers—but French leaders are to be blamed for this blood bath."

The walls of the chamber were draped with mourning. The president's tribune was transformed to represent a grave mound and surrounded with flowers.

President Ebert, members of the cabinet and leading citizens were present. A gigantic crowd flocked to the building which was soon filled to overflowing."

Commission Denies Mileage Book Appeal

WASHINGTON, April 11.—A petition of the American Farm Bureau Federation, Trans-continental, Western and Southwestern railroads, and the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, for re-opening of the interchangeable mileage book case was denied by the interstate commerce commission. Under previous orders of the commission the sale of these tickets will go into effect on May 1.

VACUUM TUBE AS DAMPED WAVE DETECTOR

The first circuits employing vacuum tubes to be discussed by the beginner should be those that are in general practice and which led to the adoption of more complicated hookups, which will be found in these columns as we progress. We shall first take a simple detector circuit and an explanation of its action. In order to understand how a vacuum tube acts when used as a detector consider the circuit accompanying this article. Suppose the receiving antenna picks up a signal. Oscillations in the tunnel circuit L C are set up because L is inductively coupled to the antenna circuit. The radio frequency voltage between the terminals of L is impressed between the filament and grid and brings about changes in the plate circuit. On the average the plate current is increased while the signal is passing. The frequency of the wave trains should be within the range of audible sound, preferably between 300 and 2,000 per second, because the telephone inductance smooths out each train of high frequency oscillations into a single pulse and the pulse frequency must, therefore, be within the audible range in order that signals may be heard.

Connections for Using Vacuum Tube as a Simple Detector

In some cases it may be necessary to use a "C" battery between points F and G shown in the diagram in order to bring the plate current to a proper value. This, however, does not change the action; the variations of the plate current are brought about by the alternating emf. between the terminals of coil L just the same as when the "C" battery is absent.

If the grid battery voltage is adjusted so that the plate current has a value near the upper bend of the plate current grid voltage curve instead of the lower bend the action will be essentially the same, but the effect of the arrival of a wave train will be to decrease momentarily the plate current instead of increase it. As before, there will be fluctuations of the plate current keeping time with the arrival of wave trains and a sound in the telephones of a pitch corresponding to the number of wave trains per second.

Care must be taken in the use of receiving tubes that the "B" battery voltage is never high enough to cause a visible "blue glow." The tube becomes very erratic in behavior when in this condition and is very uncertain and not sensitive as a detector. This is because the plate current becomes so large that it is unaffected by variations of the grid voltage. In other words, it has reached the saturation point. Furthermore, the tube becomes very hot and its safety is endangered by the blue glow discharge.

THE GLENDALE

"The Forgotten Law," a photoplay version of the famous novel, "A Modern Madonna," by Caroline Abbott Stanley, is now showing at the Glendale Theatre, with a cast that includes Milton Sills, Jack Mulhail and Cleo Riegely.

The forgotten law that gives the story its title is an old one to the effect that a father has the rearing of his son, even after death, by arrangement of his will, even to the extent of separating the child from its own mother.

The dangers of this law are exposed in this strong drama, which is produced under the personal supervision of Max Graf, and directed by James W. Horne, with screen adaptation by Joseph Franklin Poland, of Glendale.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— By Howard R. Garis —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE CAKE

Uncle Wiggily was hopping along through an April shower with his umbrella held over his head, and his paws filled with bundles, as he had been to the store for Nurse Jane.

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" suddenly laughed the bunny rabbit gentleman to himself out loud, and for no particular reason, as far as could be seen. For no one had told him a joke, and he wasn't reading the funny paper.

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed the bunny rabbit gentleman again.

"Why are you so jolly?" suddenly asked a voice, and Uncle Wiggily quickly looked out from beneath his umbrella, for he feared it might be the Skillery Scallery Alligator or the Bob Cat.

"Eh? What did you say and who are you?" asked Uncle Wiggily, for he saw no one.

"I asked why you are so jolly, laughing that way," went on the voice. "And I am one of your friends—a Squiggle Bug," and with that the bunny gentleman saw, sitting on a stump, a spotted Squiggle Bug.

"Oh, hello, little bug!" cried the rabbit gentleman. "Don't you want to come under my umbrella and keep dry? It is raining hard."

"Thank you, I'll crawl under a toadstool after a while," answered the Squiggle Bug. "I always use a toadstool for an umbrella. But tell me, why were you laughing?"

"I was thinking what a joke I could play on the Fox or Wolf if they should catch me now, and carry me off to their den to nibble my ears," answered the bunny gentleman. "I have something with me better than the mustard with which I fooled the Fox by making a custard."

"What have you?" asked the Squiggle Bug. "Tell me."

Uncle Wiggily looked all around to make sure no one was listening, and then he whispered in the ear of the Squiggle Bug:

"I have red pepper!"

"Oh!" cried the Squiggle Bug. "Red pepper!" and he squirmed around on the stump.

"I hope I spilled none on you," said Uncle Wiggily quickly, as he looked at one of the packages he carried.

"No," laughed the Squiggle Bug, 'you just tickled me when you whispered in my ear. Well I wish you luck if the Fox or Wolf catches you."

"Thank you," said Uncle Wiggily, and he hopped on through the rain.

He had not gone much farther before, all of a sudden, out from behind a tree jumped the Woozie Wolf. And before Uncle Wiggily saw the bad chap, on account of holding the umbrella low down, the Wolf had caught hold of the rabbit.

Now I'm going to take you off to my den and nibble your ears!" growled the Wolf. "And you can't fool me, as you did the Fox, by mixing up mustard in a custard. I shall not take anything yellow—so don't try it on me!"

"All right, I won't," sadly said Uncle Wiggily, as the Wolf dragged him off through the woods, getting the bunny quite wet, for the Wolf made him put down the umbrella.

"Here we are!" snarled the Wolf, opening the door of his den, thrusting Uncle Wiggily inside and following himself. "Now for some ear-nibbles. What have you there?" he asked the rabbit, as he saw the bundles in the bunny's paws.

"Things for Nurse Jane to make a cake," answered Uncle Wiggily. "How would you like me to make you a cake before you nibble my ears?" went on Uncle Wiggily. "I could mix you up a fine cake—I have eggs, sugar and——"

"No mustard!" cried the Wolf, raising one paw.

"No mustard, I promise you," said the bunny. "How would you like a well, let us say a strawberry short cake?"

"That's red—strawberry short cake is," said the Wolf. "Very well, make me a red cake. I'll eat it before I nibble your ears."

Uncle Wiggily mixed up some eggs, sugar and red pepper, not letting the Wolf see him put in the last. The Wolf looked in the bowl and, seeing the red batter, said:

"Yes, that's a strawberry cake, all right. I guess you aren't fooling me." Then, not waiting for the cake to be baked, he swallowed it all raw from the bowl. But no sooner was it down than the red pepper began to burn like fire, and the Wolf turned four somersaults, one after the other, and out of the cave he ran, howling:

"Fooled! Fooled! just as the Fox was. Oh, ice water!"

"Ha! Ha! laughed the bunny as he hopped home. "I wish the Squiggle Bug could have seen the Wolf turn somersaults!" So everything happened for the best, you see. And if the ice pick doesn't take the tin whistle out of the rubber doll's back, and put it in the rice pudding, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the tree squirrel.

CITY WILL RESCIND CLEAN-UP PLANS

City Authorities to Withdraw From Position Adopted At Recent Meet

The action of the City Council in agreeing to assist in the proposed clean-up of the town is to be rescinded by the city officials, according to a report made by George B. Karr, chairman of the civics committee of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, at the weekly meeting of the directors at the Citizens Building yesterday. Mr. Karr did not present any reasons for the course that the council proposes to adopt beyond saying that the belief is held in some quarters that the time is not ripe for the clean-up at present. He also reported that the ordinance that is to be presented to the City Council seeking to regulate the automobile camps that are now or may later be established here is not yet completed, bt that it would be introduced at an early meeting of the council.

R. E. Johnson was confirmed as vice-chairman of the civics committee by the directors, to take the place of Lyman P. Clark, who has resigned.

A letter was ordered written to C. U. Mandis of the Glendale mill, who has volunteered to deliver 200 loads of shavings to cover the floor space of the tent in which the Merchants Industrial Exposition is to be held; according to the report of the publicity committee submitted by H. S. McCormack, who added that the plans for the exposition are working out smoothly and that the prospects for an exceptionally successful display are extremely bright.

Will File Brief

The city attorney has been requested to file a brief before the State Railroad Commission at its meeting this week asking for an order reducing the round trip fare between Glendale and Los Angeles from 38 cents to 25 cents, it was reported by Peter L. Ferry, who has been working on the committee having this matter in charge.

A letter was received from James W. Pearson, South Brand realtor, in which he stated that he was putting Glendale advertising on all of his outgoing mail and he suggested that the Chamber of Commerce might, with profit, adopt the same idea and urge its members to do the same.

Plans for the addresses to be delivered here by Charles P. Baer of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce will have to remain unsettled until the close of the trip that members of that organization are making through the San Joaquin valley, and it is also the plan of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce to summon a meeting of the various committees that have just been confirmed in order to discuss the plans for the work of the coming year. The event will be marked by a dinner, but the date is yet to be fixed.

A letter was received from an official of the postoffice department with reference to the recently contemplated reduction in the force of the local office, which confirmed the news that has been received by Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson, to the effect that the staff will be maintained at its present strength and that additional appropriations will be available at the end of June, when the question of the extension of the rural mail service will be taken up with a view to putting additional men on this work.

Lady Astor Raps Foes Of Prohibition Bill

LONDON, April 11—Opponents in the house of commons to Viscountess Astor's prohibition bill, barring the sale of drinks to persons under 18 years old, have succeeded in modifying the measure by "withdrawing some of its teeth." The viscountess did not attempt to hide her resentment. She stirred up the standing committee with caustic remarks.

"What was good enough for the old days is not good enough for the new days," she exclaimed.

One member of the committee in particular excited her ire. After referring to him as a "village donkey," she was ordered to withdraw her remarks. It was the standing committee which had altered the bill.

Arrangements were made for an all-night session of commons to debate the labor situation and British foreign affairs.

Premier A. Bonar Law's return from his vacation showing evidences of illness, especially throat trouble, has aroused fresh speculations as to whether he will be able to hold out. His voice is so weak that it is difficult for him to speak.

Episcopal Church to Hear Building Plans

Plans for the enlargement and remodeling of St. Mark's Episcopal church are to be presented and discussed tonight at the parish meeting following the dinner served by the vestry and Guild.

Dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock to members of the parish and the meeting will follow.

Mrs. Frank England is chairman of the dinner committee and she is being assisted by Mesdames B. O. Holbrook, Farber, Atwood and Potter in the kitchen; Misses Potter and Parker and Mrs. Galrapp with the tables; Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Baker with the dessert; and Miss Ella Williams, Mrs. Helen Campbell and Mrs. F. S. Card in receiving.

Clean-Up and Japanese Johnson for President? In Gamble With Death Place Firm Foundation

By Gil A. Cowan

SAN FRANCISCO ushered in a cleanup week last Saturday with a monster parade of school children.

According to those who witnessed the demonstration the little Japanese from the McKinley school showed the greatest enthusiasm for cleaning up San Francisco.

While it is recognized that the Oriental standard of living is lower, it must be admitted that the Japanese believe in cleanliness and all governments may learn a lesson by comparing the Chinese and Japanese.

The decadence of the former empire may be attributed to a general slovenly condition and utter lack of sanitation in great cities. Plague and pestilence not only take its toll in lives, but so weakens the living that the entire race is blighted.

But the Japanese show much more modern thought along the lines of sanitation, imitating the occidental world, and becoming a world force almost overnight. Sanitation and education seem to walk hand in hand among the Japanese.

No city, county, state or nation can afford to become slovenly, much less an individual. Cleanup campaigns may cost money, but their psychological effect on the general public will be worth ten times the amount spent. Householders are not inclined to clean up their yards when there already is too much trash in the alleys.

So you can draw your own conclusion that sanitation is an expensive municipal duty if a clean city is to be kept clean.

Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California is in Europe gathering material for his presidential campaign in 1924, according to the copyrighted article appearing the first of the week in the New York Times.

To those of us in the West who have supported the champion progressive of the Republican party, the one man alone who could win the presidency on the direct primary ballot, we are glad to see him "over there" getting first hand information on continental conditions.

And, as surely as Harding endeavors to entangle this nation for the benefit of the international bankers in foreign alliances, just as surely will he go down to the defeat of Wilson and Cox.

The Germans have come to the use of scrip in their trading, the mark having reached a state of worthlessness, according to current reports.

This undoubtedly will lead to the revival of gold as a standard in central Europe and when that occurs foreign trade will be stabilized once again.

Heaven knows that the United States needs foreign trade, especially when we learn the California Associated Raisin Growers have 78,000 tons of grapes stored in their San Joaquin valley warehouses.

But far better the United States have no foreign trade than to attempt financing nations so hopeless in debt as France, Germany, Austria and Russia.

America can pay them gold for their products. It has half of the world supply. And if it is gold that they need, let them earn it!

Another daredevil aviator is dead. He boasted "no plane made can kill Malone," according to a pal. We are glad we never sailed high in the sky with a man who so brilliantly and foolishly gambled with death.

Aviation is a wonderful game, but, like all others, it is not to be dealt with lightly. The very fact Malone and McKee left earth without exhaust pipes properly adjusted on their machine was evidence enough neither cared what happened.

The east and middle-west have spring while Southern California has been enjoying the most beautiful weather imaginable.

Late rains are crop insurance, although there is not an abundance of water. At the same time prosperity is predicted for all of California. Farmers are going ahead on a greater scale and many people are getting back to the soil this year under most favorable circumstances.

While speaking of business conditions, there is a word of warning to be heard from all sides about "a little less speed." By this the economists and financiers mean that no one should endeavor to make a fortune in the two or three years of prosperity.

Build for the future, lay a firm foundation for business, establish credit, and legitimately store away the profits of your toil. Do not invest too heavily in get-rich-quick schemes, for therein lies the danger of over-inflation.'

Every time we speak of "build for the future" our thoughts turn to the lumber industry which has staged a wonderful come-back in this country since the war.

Six months ago we predicted lumber was going up. Wise builders took cognizance of this fact. Again we note that mills in Oregon and Washington are contracting at present prices for only sixty to ninety days, clearly indicating another boost in construction costs.

If you are contemplating building, better get busy right now. Next fall and winter will see the greatest construction program in the history of the United States under full steam with a shortage of materials.

It's carrying democracy a little too far when every second-rate team has a home run king.

AIR COP SWINGS ON AERIAL BEAT

W. B. Kinner Patrols Upper Traffic Lanes After Taking Oath

Glendale has an aerial cop!

W. B. Kinner, who lives on and over the airport, has been sworn in by Col. J. D. Fraser as a member of the local police department. His duties will be both terrestial and celestial. He will see that the city's property on the airport is properly protected. While in the air, it will be his job to see that aviators observe the speed laws, that they navigate in a careful and cautious manner, that they put out their hands, or feet, when making turns, and that they don't park too near the clouds of the celestial fire department. When not otherwise engaged, he will assist Mother Goose in sweeping the cobwebs off the sky.

A comparison of the safety on the ground and in the air was made this morning by Mr. Kinner with some vehémence. Last night while he was turning off San Fernando road, to enter the airport, his automobile was struck by a machine driven by a Jap and a wheel was taken off.

Contribution boxes for churches are an American idea, funds being secured in churches of early Colonial days by passing around a warming pan.

KIWANIS BRINGS ORPHEUS CHORUS

Noted Musical Organization To Stage Concert Here Saturday Night

The Orpheus club of Los Angeles will sing Saturday night in the auditorium of the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse under the auspices of the Glendale Kiwanis club.

This male chorus of sixty voices is regarded as the finest on the Pacific coast. Most of its members have been harmonizing together for the past eighteen years, which is considerably longer than any college glee club in the United States. Its concerts in Los Angeles always pack the large auditorium in which they are given.

The Orpheus club is directed by Hugo Kirchoffer of Holiywood, who directs the community singing at the First Methodist church.

Local members of the chorus are O. W. Andresen of 360 Myrtle street, second tenor, and W. L. Hyde of 524 Alexander street, first bass. Before coming west Mr. Andresen sang for three seasons with the Apollo club in Chicago. He is director of music for the local Kiwanis club. Through his efforts the Orpheus club have made arrangements to present an exceptionally fine program in Glendale.

Quartet to Sing

The Orpheus Four, which has just returned from a very successful concert tour, will not only sing special numbers, but will participate in the chorus. Its members are Samuel Glass, tenor; Paul Adams, second tenor; V. A. Campbell, baritone; and H. M. Dudley, bass. They will be accompanied by Raymond McFeeters, a pianist of note who will play several selections. Other soloists will be William E. Ooley, lyric tenor, and Tracy Cheatham, baritone.

All tickets will be sold before the concert, according to M. B. Towman, of 248 South Brand boulevard. He stated this morning that only 150 tickets remained unsold.

The Mark of Habit

TODAY'S SHORT STORY by Ad Schuster

"Remember the Trainor case?" aptain Myers put the question Ed Wylie, and did not wait for answer. "Well, I have reived a tip Trainor is right here Warcville, has been here for er a year. Do you wish to help e find him?"

"Trainor?" Ed reflected. Wasn't he the doctor over in mestown who committed a murr and disappeared? There was lot of talk of poison and his owledge of chemistry, and a nt which extended across the untry? Yes, the story comes ck. Let's have a look at the deription."

The police captain, smiling at e lad's interest, handed over a rd and smiled again as the her read.

"Might fit one out of any five en you meet. Medium height, ht hair, blue eyes, 150 pounds. rainor was clever and probably d been in trouble before, for no e could find a photograph. Do u still think you will help me ok for him?"

"Might as well. The card deribes him as smooth-faced, hich means he has a beard or oustache now. That eliminates e smooth-faced population of ardville at the start. I will folw whiskers, investigate the vner of each crop as to the ngth of time he has lived in wn, and it won't be long before have the field narrowed down. it a good idea?"

"I thought it was," the captain joined, "when I tried it, but it dn't get me anywhere. That's hy I've turned the job over to u."

Ed Wylie walked the street, pting the proportion of bearded en to those who were without cial adornment. The task was oing to be a large one, for Wardlle had been a place of rapid xpansion, and the newcomers ere many. Well, he would elimate the short, the tall, and the out. For a few weeks he would alk the medium-sized men with eards.

A famous detective has said at every clue is discovered by nance, and that ability to detect rime and criminals consists in eing able to recognize an opporunity when it is presented. Ed ound himself balked at every rn; the task seemed endless, ext to impossible. He thought the way the captain had smiled, the reward and the vacation ip it would bring. "I'll stick it ut," he said and, mechanically, e fell in step behind another edium-sized man who wore a onde beard.

The bearded man walked with a stout companion, and the two talked real estate.

"I figure," the bearded one said, "that if he turns in that lot on Sixth Street and can make a payment of $300, I can swing the deal." The other nodded. This was not the talk of a doctor or a chemist. And yet Trainor, no doubt, would have changed his occupation.

The real estate men turned into a building, and Ed entered the elevator with them. Then the bearded man offered his friend a stick of chewing gum and removed the wrapper of another. Back in the corner of the car, Ed watched with pretended indifference.

At the sixth floor the men got out, and Ed followed, stopping in front of a directory on the wall, as if searching for a name. The bearded man was folding the paper he had removed from the gum, folding it absent-mindedly, just as some men roll it in a ball and others tear it into small pieces. There are only a few who discard immediately the wrapping from gum or candy.

This man folded the paper twice lengthwise, gave it a peculiar twist, then creased the ends with his thumb nail. This done, he flipped the tight little rectangle onto the floor and entered an office. Ed picked up the paper, read the name on the door, and went to see Captain Myers.

"You are the man to question him," Ed said. "You know how. Put it to him good, for I am sure that, for all of his talk, he has not been a real estate agent long. I've a hunch I may be on the right track."

The lad waited for the return of the captain, watched a half hour and then an hour pass. The delay was promising. Then the captain, walking briskly, entered the room.

"Well," he said, "Trainor is in jail, a particularly bad and troublesome case is cleared, and you get the reward. But tell me, how did you come to pick him out?"

"Did you ever see a physician or a druggist fold a paper of powder?" Ed asked. "They have a special way of doing it and, when they're through, the powder won't leak out, and yet it is simple to open the end. There is a trick and a knack about the thing. This man, who said he was a real estate man, folded his gum paper, absent-mindedly, in just that way."

TEACHING CHILDREN TO EAT

Dear Followers—Here is a very helpful letter from one of our mothers. After you read it, won't you write me immediately if you have discovered some way of interesting your children in eating the foods they need? I really believe that if children are not allowed to refuse foods they need, right from the start of eating solid foods, there would be no problem of this kind. However, the problem does exist, I know that from your letters. That is why I am going to give you this letter:

"Dear Doctor—I know from experience that your correspondent whose child has not learned to eat vegetables has a difficult task before her. Having had two children who were difficult to teach to eat certain articles of food, I venture to offer a few suggestions in the hope that they may be helpful.

"I do not believe that faulty discipline is always to blame when children display a distaste for some foods. In the same family, under the same discipline, some children will eat anything willingly, while others at a very early age will display a dislike for one or more foods of the every-day dietary. To overcome this difficulty the mother will have to exert unlimited patience and ingenuity. She will have to make herself a play-actor, and even a playwright, for, if the child does not eat the food willingly, it might better not be eaten at all. (No, this isn't right, mother. We've got to make 'em eat some things willingly or no. Otherwise some of them would starve for some of the needed elements.—L. H. P.)

"To begin with, a child loves small things, as small dishes, small spoons. Serve a very small portion of the unwanted food at a time and do not repeat the same food more frequently than is absolutely necessary.

"Plan with the child to surprise father at meal time by having the food all eaten without complaint, and do not neglect to tip father off so that he will be properly surprised. If the child is old enough, raw vegetables will sometimes be eaten with relish while you are preparing them.

"A small mountain of mashed potatoes with a mashed carrot sun rising over it, is sometimes devoured without ever realizing that carrots and potatoes are being eaten. Do not give your victim too much time to wander away from the idea that he is eating a mountain and a sun.

"Small metal toys, such as rings and animals, may be buried and tunneled for. (Be mighty careful here, mothers, that the toys are clean and are not swallowed, too!) Play that you are a mother bird bringing food to a little one in the nest. The child can be taught the call of a large variety of birds in this way. Of course, this would necessitate the mother feeding the child, but it works. (Later the child can be taught that he is an old enough bird to feed himself.—L. H. P.)

"A child will often eat with relish vegetables he has seen growing and has helped to gather. Frequently, by a little effort, we can acquaint ourselves with some new vegetable of the same class to take the place of the one especially disliked. As the child grows older he will learn to like a greater variety of vegetables if you do not let him get away with too much 'choiceness'.

"In our own family every child of six and over is required to eat at least a small proportion of every food that comes to our table with three exceptions. One boy is exempt from onions, one from fish, and one girl from turnips. (This is all right if the food does not happen to be milk or wholewheat bread. I can sympathize with the girl who can't stand turnips. They are about the only food in the entire pharmacopea that I don't like.—L. H. P.)

"I hope I have been able to offer help of some value to your correspondents and that I have not taken too much of your valuable time. I read your column regularly and believe you are doing a great work. I find your articles interesting and helpful.—M. W. B."

Isn't that a splendid letter? I included her compliment to our service, for I can see the writer is a woman of great discernment. Thank you very much, M. W. B., for your helpful letter and the compliment, too.

Now, mothers, get your pen and write me of some things you have found helpful.

The housekeeper who can make light souffle is never at a loss o know what to serve for a "comany" luncheon or supper. Here re "just how" directions::

A Souffle That Serves Four eople—Make a thick white sauce s follows: Heat one cup of sweet ilk in a small saucepan and, hen scalding hot (do not let it oil), add to it three level tablepoons of flour which you have ixed to a paste with four tablepoons of cold water. Stir till he milk thickens, then add onealf teaspoon of salt and two level ablespoons of butter. Remove rom fire and cool slightly. Then ir into the sauce the beaten yolks f three eggs.

Your next step is to measure out ne cupful of any kind of vegetable. For instance, use one cupful of cooked, tender asparagus cut small, or one cup of the more solid parts of tomatoes cut small, or one cup of left-over mashed potato.

After adding this vegetable to the sauce, fold into it the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs. Then turn all into a buttered baking fish. The baking dish which I use for this recipe is a glass one which measures six inches across the bottom and has flaring sides so that the dish measures nine inches across the top. The sides are three inches high. Before you bake the souffle it will fill a dish of this size only one-third full. But, after baking, the souffle will rise so that the dish is two-thirds full.

In baking, the dish containing the souffle must stand in a pan of hot water. I use a round layercake pan filled as full as possible of hot water. Bake the souffle for forty minutes in a moderate oven. If you use a Fahrenheit oven thermometer, do not have the temperature of the oven above 400—it is better at 350. If you use a Centigrade thermometer, have your oven heat from 177 degrees to 204 degrees.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. BEAUTY CHATS

by Edna Kent Forbes

TOE-NAILS

They say the marvelous discoveries in the Valley of the Kings in Egypt, especially that of the tomb of Tutankhamen, will lead to a great vogue for Egyptian fashions. We will have Egyptian furniture, Egyptian hangings, head-dresses, costumes and, above all, sandals instead of shoes—this because of the exquisite sandals worn by the buried king.

Let us hope so, for sandals are such a delight to wear that I cannot think how anyone would return to shoes after having been permitted them. But let us devoutly pray that the new fashion won't go to the length of demanding bare feet—let's hope they'll leave us silk stockings anyway! Few toe-nails can stand public inspection.

We might, just in case, begin to beautify our toe-nails. These are the most neglected part of the body, they say—and I don't doubt it. Begin by soaking the feet for 20 minutes to half an hour in a basin of warm, soapy water. Then take your nail file and clean under each toe-nail and, with the cuticle knife, scrape off all the dead skin you can remove from the nail. Clip the jagged ends with your manicure scissors and then trim the nails short.

This trimming differs from the manicure, because each nail should be cut straight across, and the two large toe-nails should be cut inwards. V-shaped with the point going in, so as to draw the ends from the skin and cure or prevent that painful affliction, ingrowing nails.

Now rub the toe-nails with a little vaseline and wipe this off. Go through this process once a week, and you will not know your nails in a few months, they'll be so improved. But meantime you must wear sensible shoes which permit the toes sufficient room to lie straight.

L. W. J. P.—It is not well to wear your clothes so tight that pressure over the bust could injure it through bruising. Dash cold water over the chest every day and dry with light friction from a coarse towel. This treatment will tone all the muscles, including those of the bust. Deep breathing is an exercise for all the muscles from the waistline upward, and like all other exercise, it will develop flabby muscles so they will become firm, or it will consume fat while building up the muscular tissues.

Hopeful — It requires professional treatment to eliminate these pits from the skin.

Marion A.—As vinegar is an acid, it stands to reason that constant applications of it would destroy the life of your hair. I am wondering why anyone would use it at all.

Tomorrow—After the Baby

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Side Talks

by Ruth Cameron

SICK-ABED BOOKS

Being sick abed certainly has its compensations,—if you aren't too sick, of course.

And one of them is the glorious chance to catch up in your reading. There are always fortyleven new things that you ought to read—if for nothing else, at least in self-defense. So the thing to do when you find yourself laid by the heels in bed and absolutely obliged to let other things go, is to catch up in this new reading. Pile the table beside the bed with the new magazines, borrow that new novel that everyone is talking about, send to the library for that new book on psychology, and go to it.

The Old Friend Books

That's what I always mean to do when the god of mild sicknesses gives me a few days in bed. But do I? Almost never. The time is mine and the books, but somehow the mood isn't right. I want to read but I don't want to read new books. I want to read old ones. The gentle lassitude of convalescence makes a perfect background for the calls of old friends, but does not make one eager to meet new ones And so it is with books. The books my mind turns to are old friends, the restful, serene ones that take you by the hand and enjoy old memories with you.

"Cranford" is my idea of a perfect sick-abed book. Dear Miss Mattie, how often have I spent my days of convalescence or of mild indisposition in your gentle company. No one could be a more perfect sick room presence than you and all your friends. Sister Deborah, to be sure, is a bit exacting but you always stand between me and her. I met a woman the other day who had never read "Cranford." She has promised me to read "Cranford" in her next convalescence. Of course, I do not hope that she will be ill. But at least when illness does come it will not be an unmixed misfortune.

The books of Trollope, to those who like him, are sick-abed books. And also that modern author, who has been so often compared to Trollope, Archibald Marshall.

Thackeray's books I love to reread on sick-abed days unless I am in that stage of convalescence where my appetite is bigger than the meals I am allowed. For Thackeray's folks are great folks for eating and drinking, and if your mouth has to water in vain it may be well to keep away from his pages.

Forget Tomorrow

I suppose Dickens would be an excellent sick-abed author if one were fond of him. In my own case, my heart was given to Thackeray.

An author in the Atlantic Monthly has an essay on the compensations for having grippe. The main one is that he gets a chance to reread George MacDonald so I suppose that is his favorite sick-abed author.

Agnes Repplier's essays are delightful sick-abed reading—to admit of one of the moderns to the company of the older writers.

Doubtless you have your own sick-abed favorites so you do not have to hear more about mine. But isn't it a rich feeling — a whole day when you can't do anything but read, when your conscience can't nag you to attend to some household duty! Tomorrow perhaps you will have the wretchedness of rising to cope with daily duties without your full meed of daily strength. But what of that? Today is yours, yours for a rest of spirit and an enriching of the mind, yours to commune with your old friends, the sick-abed books.

Who's To Be "King of Swat"?

By Wood Cowan

RODGER HORNSBY'S 42 CIRCUIT CLOUTS LAST SEASON WON HIM THE TITLE OF "HOME RUN KING" IN 1922
BABE RUTH HIT 37 HOME RUNS AND HE DIDN'T GET STARTED UNTIL MAY 20TH HE SHOULD BEAT HIS OLD RECORD OF 59 HOMERS THIS SEASON
KEN WILLIAMS, OF ST LOOIE KNOCKED 39 FOUR BASE HITS IN 1922 TOPPING THE AMERICAN LEAGUE LIST OF SLUGGERS
WOOD COWAN

Who will carry off the home run honors this season?

Ruth of course has the call, and if past performances count for anything the "King-Of-Swat" should cop the medals by a good margin. There are several things that bring us to that conclusion. First of all is Babe's real effort to get into condition. Then, too, his showing last year was far ahead of his rivals when you consider that he did not face a pitcher until the 20th of May. His record of fifty-nine home-runs in 1921 is sixteen more than Hornsby was able to register last season.

It is true that Hornsby increased his string of circuit clouts from twenty-one in 1921, to forty-two, in 1922—just twice as many. Should he be able to keep up that pace the coming season Ruth will have to look to his laurels. Roger may have gotten into the habit of slamming them over the fence for a 100 per cent increase. If he has, Ruth's fifty-nine record will look sick this fall.

Then there's that other circuit slapper, Ken Williams of the St. Looie Browns. Ken hit twenty-four homers in 1921 and thirty-nine last season. If he can keep that percentage of increase up the coming season the "Home-run Derby" ought to be a hummer this summer."

There are three or four others who must also be taken into consideration as possible contenders. 'Tillie' Walker cracked out thirty-seven long distance clouts the season just past, adding fourteen to his 1921 total. Bob Meusel, George Kelly (who early in 1921 kept pace with the Babe in circuit clouts), Williams of the "Phillies" Miller, Hetline and Reb Russell are all mighty sluggers who have shown big increases in home-run swats the past summer. Any one of these may acquire the knack of slapping the pill over the fence and bloom into a new king of the four-base wallopers.

Hornsby again seems to be the National League's best bet, for this star is at the top of his game and he sure is a husky biffer. While it looks like Ruth will be the favorite of the American League fence buster fans. The way the two are training, barring accidents, they should both beat their old records at thumping home-runs.

SELECTS TIGERS TO WIN PENNANT

Champion Yanks Look Like Weak Entry in Race, Declares Expert

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service

NEW YORK, April 11.—That the New York Yankees are not the ball club to succeed, where much better combinations such as the old New York Giants and the Philatelphia Athletics failed, to wit, the winning of three championships in succession, has become the firm conviction of this writer within recent days. He is, therefore, picking the Detroit Tigers to win the American league pennant this season with the Chicago White Sox in the runner-up position.

The Yanks, being an outfit that must either win the pennant or flop ingloriously, is selected to run third, and the dismembered Browns for fourth place, with the Cleveland Indians, the Athletics, Senators and Red Sox following in the order named.

All of which may not be worth a couple of flat feet in the light of future developments. However, Patrick Henry was quoted as saying that he would rather be right than be president. Some of the time he was neither and this writer can hardly claim to be a better man than the late Mr. Henry. He can and does reserve the American privilege of being wrong.

Tigers Look Good

The Tigers seem to be the team of destiny as far as 1923 is concerned. Probably the greatest collection of enthusiastic hitters ever assembled, they can blast their way to a pennant behind even mediocre pitching. Cobb, however, may get more than that from his staff, in which case the Tigers will coast in.

He is just the man to make a great pitching out of Rip Collins and very possibly will get some definite results from Sylvester Johnson, the speed ball king of the minors two years ago. Add to this pair, Herman Pillette, the best kid pitcher uncovered last season, and the elderly Dauss and you have the frame-work of a more or less solid institution.

A better club than any in the league, if it could muster the pitching, is the Chicago White Sox. They are a faster, smarter team than either the Tigers or Yanks and have plenty of hitting, but we are dubious of the ability of Faber, Laverette, Blankenship and Robertson to pitch the Sox into a pennant. Faber is gradually losing effectiveness in his declining years and the others are mere youngsters who may or may not come along.

The Yanks are dropped to third place for several reasons. One as stated, is the fact that if they lose the pennant at all they will do it right. Another is the apparent breaking down of their defenses in several vital sectors.

Scott is not and probably never again will be the shortstop he was in Boston. His legs are going and that is the swan song of all ball players. Ward is not smart enough to play second base acceptably. He is a sensational third baseman, where most of the plays are in front of him, but the intersections of the keystone bag have him stopped like a watch. Further the Yanks will face the necessity of replacing Witt in center field sooner or later. The pitching, of course, is the best in all baseball, but weaknesses at the positions mentioned would bankrupt a staff of Mathewsons.

Others Are Weak

The Browns, without Sisler, are punchless and must develop a few pitchers to string along with Shocker if they want to finish in the first division. The Indians are building anew and may, in time, make a thorough-going job of it, but not this year. They are shy on first class pitching and the impressive hitting of the 1920 champions is doing a slow fade-out.

As for the Athletics, they are generally regarded as a dangerous entry that is likely to prove annoying to pennant contenders from time to time. It is a club, however, that lacks convincing hitting, and, with the exception of Rommel, the pitchers come under that vague definition expressed as promising. The Senators and Red Sox are hopeless, the latter more so than any major league club since Connie Mack dismembered the old Athletics.

The WORLD OVER

By FRANKLIN B. MORSE.
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

In no section of the country is there a more intense rivalry than exists between the oarsmen of San Francisco and San Diego. The annual Pacific coast championship will be rowed this year at Coronado Tent City, and if hard work means anything the Southern California oarsmen are going to retain the laurels they have held for several years in competition with the boatmen of the Golden Gate City. There are more than twenty men who are in line for a seat in the various boats of the San Diego Rowing club, not to mention others who still have hopes of displacing the first line aspirants. Incidentally, the San Franciscans are not behind their southern brethren in the matter of effort to win the 1923 aquatic honors. There is a lot of business going on at the foot of Van Ness avenue.

The Olympic club of San Francisco has just selected plans for a country club annex to their city home which is to cost a quarter of a million dollars. It will be located near the present site of the Lakeside club house, set in the midst of the Winged O's beautiful golf links. This course is among one of the most beautiful in California, the terrain being a rolling one with an infinite variety of scenery including open spaces, woodland and, to one side, the expanse of the Pacific ocean.

In view of the tremendous popularity of golf, the action of the University of California, in not recognizing it officially as a minor sport is taken by golfers as a whole as rather a loss to the university than to the game. The wonder has been that neither of the big California universities have fostered the sport in which they are lagging behind the eastern contemporaries. These institutions seem to be overlooking a fine vehicle for added intercollegiate competition of the very best sort.

Battling Siki the Senegalese pugilist is said to have returned from Ireland to France on a tramp steamer. Nothing remarkable about that. There are no brake beams traversing the English channel.

Harvey Snodgrass of Los Angeles is the present flash in Pacific coast tennis circles. His imposing defeats of Bill Johnston, former national singles champion, Peck Griffin and Bob Kinsey, ranking players, has sent his stock soaring and he is being groomed to enter some of the more important eastern tournaments. His progress will be watched with interest in the tennis world. Snodgrass, however, will play under a considerable handicap as he has had no experience on turf courts. Furthermore, his weakness is in his back hand strokes and eastern players will not take long in finding out this defect in his game and taking advantage of it.

KILLS WOMAN, SELF

TOLEDO, O., April 11.—Because she spurned his attentions Walter Skaluda, 45, shot and killed Mrs. Rose Miodzinski, then killed himself at the woman's house party shortly after noon today. A 12-year-old daughter of the woman witnessed the double killing.

CHAMPION QUITS RING FOR MINING

Dempsey Will Devote Time To Coal Property, Is Manager's Report

NEW YORK, April 11.—Jack Dempsey will not again enter the ring to defend his world's heavyweight championship, according to a statement made today by Dan McKettrick, eastern manager of the Kearns-Dempsey boxing interests. The champion, he declared, intends to devote his entire attention to extensive coal mining operations, in which he is a principal stockholder at Dempsey, Utah.

The concern is called the Great Western Coal Mining company, and Dempsey has been elected its president, and Jack Kearns its secretary and treasurer, McKittrick said.

He declared that 100,000,000 tons of coal were to be mined and that the income would be sufficient to justify Dempsey and Kearns in retiring from boxing.

Dempsey Sincere

"They have been considering this step for some time," McKittrick stated, "and from the looks of things, everything is settled. I had Kearns on the long distance telephone last night and he assured me that Dempsey is sincere in his intention to quit the ring.

"Of course," he added, "the champion may change his mind after he is out of the game for a while, but he figures to make enough money out of this proposition to remove him from all temptation as far as the financial end of boxing is concerned."

McKittrick declined to estimate what the annual income from the mining enterprise might be.

STOCKS, MARKETS

NEW YORK, April 11.—The market closed weak today. Another attack was launched against the oil stocks in the final trading. Marland oil and California Petroleum were especially weak, both losing four points at 50⅜ and 92, respectively. Pan-American Petroleum was down to 69, a loss of 3 points.

Steel equipment and motor stocks slipped off in sympathy with the unsettlement in the oils. Studebaker moved down to 121¼, a loss of over 1 point, and U. S. Steel declined ½ to 105⅞.

Government bonds unchanged: Railway and other bonds, irregular.

In Grain Markets

CHICAGO, April 11.—Swiftly turning upward after a depressing opening grain prices today rallied to higher levels in the late trading, registering gains.

Offerings were heavy at the start, but the absorption was prompt. Wheat started the upturn and was closely followed by corn and oats. Reports of green bug damage in the southwest, it was said, were not discouraging.

Wheat closed 2½ to 2¾ above yesterday's close. Corn finished 2⅛ to 2¾ higher. Oats closed ¾ to 1¾ up.

Considerable weakness developed in lard, but ribs were slightly stronger. Lard showed losses of 2 to 5c. Ribs advanced 18 to 25c.

It is a terrible strain, this contest between miners and operators. And this one between Williams and Hornsby.

Cause of Cow's Death Puzzles French Jury

PARIS, April 11.—Who killed the cow? The jury can't decide in the case of one poor critter that ate a silk scarf belonging to a French woman of Charante.

The animal died soon afterward and the farmer says it's the woman's fault. At the same time the woman is suing the farmer for the loss of her pretty scarf.

The Short Crucible

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, April 11.—According to dabblers in war-time phychology, the amicable relations preserved between Doughboy and Poilu during the late unpleasantness in Europe was the outcome of nothing more complicated than their mutual failure to comprehend the other's conversation. Thus—

A doughboy on leave in Paris is wending his weary homeward way and finds himself devoid of matches. He accosts the nearest Frenchman, who apologizes for his failure to understand by shrugging a deprecating shoulder.

"Beat it, then, you poor fathead," says doughboy.

"Merci, m'sieu," replies the frog, and the incident is closed, the poilu proceeding on his way under the impression that he has just indulged in some form of polite greeting with an American.

What, then, of Johnny Kilbane, an American who speaks no French, and Eugene Criqui, a Frenchman who speaks no English? They are scheduled to meet for the world's featherweight title at the polo grounds, June 2, and from all accounts the lack of a common tongue will cramp Kilbane's style.

John, they say, likes to talk to his intended victim. In a gentle, fatherly tone he regretfully mentions the fact that he realizes his superiority and will not show the other fellow up, if he can help it. He simply wants the victim to know that he is his friend and will not become rough unless absolutely forced to it.

In other words, John rather fancies himself as a kidder and makes practical use of his idea in talking his opponent into the belief that he is outclassed. He has "spoofed" many a fighter out of his chance for a decision, it is said.

By June 2 it is barely possible that Criqui will have picked up enough English to buy a newspaper or a Bronx cocktail without assistance, but the rest of it will be over his head like a wild throw. John would get just as far by kidding the Statue of Liberty about her coiffure.

Easter, the word, is believed to have been arrived from Eastre, the name of the goddess of the morning, or the spring.

DOLLAR SALE OF KAFETERIA SHOES

Manager Cushman Explains Why Such Bargains Can Be Offered

A "one dollar sale" at the Kafeteria Shoe store, 126 North Brand boulevard, is announced for four days, starting tomorrow, Thursday, April 12, and continuing Friday, Saturday and Monday.

Manager P. R. Cushman, who makes the announcement, states that the store opens every morning at 8 o'clock and closes at 6 o'clock in the afternoon, except Saturday, when it remains open until 10 o'clock at night.

"Among some of the wonderful values we will offer during this sale," says Mr. Cushman, "are white canvas shoes, black kid strap slippers, Pullman slippers and men's felt slippers, all for a dollar a pair."

In explaining how his store can offer such bargains in footwear, Mr. Cushman points out that the Kafeteria Shoe store is one unit of a chain of fourteen similar stores, in towns and cities adjacent to Los Angeles, where the company maintains a large central warehouse and buys at jobbers' prices.

Stores of the chain are located in Pasadena, Long Beach, San Pedro, Anaheim, Riverside, Santa Ana, Huntington Park, San Bernardino, Ontario and other points.

This chain was organized in 1914, says Mr. Cushman, and the fact that it has continued in business for nearly ten years is attributed to its bargain-offering policies.

Always Fresh Goods

These bargains are made possible, he said, by reason of the large purchasing power behind a chain of stores. But Mr. Cushman points out another advantage equally as important to the shopper, namely—the fact that novelties are continually offered, fourteen stores presenting facilities for moving along stock from store to store, always bringing in fresh goods.

The Glendale unit of the Kafeteria Shoe stores has been in existence since last September, with Mr. Cushman as its manager from the start. During that time he has adhered firmly to the policy of offering nothing in the store at a higher price than $4.85. In this way a customer knows in advance the limit to which the pocketbook can possibly be taxed.

For customers' convenience, the shoes are arranged in bins, according to price and style, and full opportunity to browse and pick is offered. When the customer finally selects a pair of footwear that seems to suit, a willing clerk makes the fit. Clerks are also at the customers' call at any time, to help in selecting styles.

That the arrangement is an excellent one is attested by the fact that the company has been operating under it for nearly a decade, says Mr. Cushman.

Husbands All Right, But Not Essential

COLUMBUS, Ohio., April 11.—"Husbands are all right. I approve of husbands as an institution. In these days, however, we don't need them to be able to get out and do things and see things," declared Judge Florence E. Allen, Associate Justice of the Ohio Supreme Court bench and the first woman in the United States to reach this exalted judicial position.

"I don't mean women should associate only with women. Some of our best friends are fine, loyal, disinterested men," continued Judge Allen, addressing members of the Girls' Athletic club here.

"There was a time when a girl who didn't have a husband was in hard straits, but that time has passed. The great thing for women to do today is to gain such intelligence in governmental activities that they can make their own way. We've been so niggardly with our interest in public affairs that we've starved the government. Every time we don't register and vote we are helping to deprive the government of interest it should have."

Give Sunday School Lessons Over Radio

ATHENS, Ohio, April 11.—Radio Sunday school lessons are being taught here. Each Sunday morning a receiving set in the First Christian church here is "tuned into" the Cincinnati, Ohio station, from which Rev. Dr. DeForest Murch, a former Athenian and Ohio University graduate "teaches" the Sunday school lesson. Hundreds of residents of this city and of Athens county attend the local "radio" Sunday school.

PASSES BOXING LAW

SACRAMENTO, April 1.—The state assembly today passed by a vote of 55 to 16 Assemblyman Harry Morrison's constitutional amendment authorizing ten round boxing bouts in California.

The amendment went through without any discussion beyond a brief explanation of its purpose by Assemblyman Pedrotti of Los Angeles, joint author with Morrison of the measure.

NAVAL RADIO IS REVENUE SOURCE

$300,000 Earned in 1922 By Service Furnished by U. S. Government

WASHINGTON, April 11.—While the naval radio service avoids commercial broadcasting, so far as is possible, that business in 1922 brought a return of nearly $300,000 to the government, Rear Admiral Henry J. Ziegemeier, in charge of naval communications, announced recently.

Where commercial companies are able to handle the business the navy adopts a "hands off" policy, but, it was pointed out, wherever emergency exists, or it is possible for the navy to co-operate with business men to extend American trade, the government is ready to be of service.

Many of the commercial messages transmitted during the last year were from business men attempting to establish trade connections by radio where commercial companies were unable to reach.

Remarkable feats in quick transmission have been accomplished by the Navy Radio Service. On the occasion of a big sporting event extra newspapers were circulated in Honolulu fifty minutes after the end of the game. The story was flashed by the naval radio. Three hours to get a message to Panama and answer back is a daily performance.

Naval Messages

Had the entire business of the bureau, which consisted of transmission of 16,000,000 words, been based on the commercial rates the incomes would have been over $4,000,000, Admiral Ziegemeier said. The bulk of transmission was for the government, for which no financial credit was given.

Messages are daily exchanged by the naval stations with practically every port in the world and with vessels in the seas of two hemispheres.

Admiral Ziegemeier said the use of wireless telephones is not yet extensive. He said these are in an experimental stage and don't always give the best service. Some of the battleships are fitted with these devices, and an extension of the service is anticipated as soon as nearer perfection is attained.

Belligerent Pheasant Nips Zoo Attendant

MONROE, Conn., April 11.—A ring-neck pheasant entered the chicken yards of Sheriff J. Frank Olmstead here, slew two setting hens and was chewing into a rooster that went to the hens' aid when members of the family rushed out and threw a net over the wild intruder. When the bird, caged, was carried to the Bridgeport zoo as a present an employe at the zoo nearly had a finger nail taken off when he poked his finger into the cage.

DEFIES STATE

LANSING, Mich., April 11. — The House of David today defied the state to abolish the Israelite colony at Benton Harbor and served notice that it will fight every move of the attorney-general's department.

The defy was given at a conference this afternoon between Governor Alex J. Groesbeck and Attorney-General Daugherty and H. F. Dewhirst, House of David attorney, Joseph Bulley, a cult member, and Attorney William Bernard of Paw Paw.

ASKS CO-OPERATION

WASHINGTON, April 11.—President Harding was requested today by Wayne B. Wheeler, generalissimo of the anti-saloon league, to enforce more co-operation between governmental departments to the end that smuggling of liquor into the United States shall be curtailed.

CAPITAL IN 1822 PRIMITIVE TOWN

Washington of Century Ago Shown by Discovery of Aged Volume

By J. L. MEDDOFF
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, April 11.—A vivid, picturesque picture of the ramshackle village that constituted the nation's capital a century ago is portrayed by a Washington city directory of 1822.

The ancient volume, its pages tinted a deep yellow by the passing of time, affords the opportunity of contrasting the Washington of today, "the city beautiful," with the Washington of 100 years ago, typical of the modern-day "one-horse town" a picture rather difficult of visualization.

The book, listing 2,228 names, contained the addresses of permanent residents, which were approximate rather than specific as seen in the city directory of today. It also had the residential addresses of United States senators and congressmen, most of whom lived in humble boarding houses.

Gives Prominent Names

Persons listed in the book who subsequently became prominent in America's history included Martin Van Buren and Rufus King, United States senators from New York. They lived at Peck's Hotel in Georgetown, a suburb of Washington today. Peck's seemingly was a sort of political headquarters for national legislators, among the members of the house listed as residing there being Samuel Edwards of Pennsylvania, Benjamin Gorman of Massachusetts, Lewis McLane of Delaware, Charles F. Mercer of Virginia and Henry R. Warfield of Maryland.

The directory shows that as late as 1822 several states were represented in congress by "delegates." They included James W. Bates of Arkansas, who lived at "Mr. Handy's on Pennsylvania avenue near Twelfth street"; Mr. Fernandez, initials and residence not given, and Solomon Sibley of Michigan, "located with Mr. Tucker, opposite Center Market".

Governed Itself

Washington, the target today for considerable badinage because its citizens are "voteless," was not governed by congress in those days, the book disclosed. The city in 1822 boasted of a mayor, a board of aldermen and a common council.

Not only were lotteries permitted at that time, but they were participated in by officials who sought to raise money for public uses, the directory revealed.

Precautionary measures against fires were taken through naming of three official chimney sweeps by the mayor. They were paid by the householder, 10 cents a floor for each flue cleaned.

The mayor also appointed wood corders and measurers, who received six cents for each cord of wood they measured and half a cent for each bushel of coal measured.

Had Traffic Problem

Even at that early date Washington had its traffic problems. The directory listed regulations governing the parking of public vehicles, which were required to stand "lengthwise" with the street, mid-way between the curbings. The driver was to occupy the seat of his vehicle or, if standing beside it, hold the reins in his hands. He was forbidden from "cracking his whip to the annoyance of pedestrians or frightening of horses, and from becoming overly boisterous."

Directory figures placed the District of Columbia's population in 1822 at 33,089, a mere handfull when compared with the more than half million now living in the District. The book gave Washington's population as 13,247 divided into 9,606 whites, 1,696 free colored persons and 1,945 slaves.

A section of the directory devoted to taxes shows that male slaves, between 15 and 45 years of age, owned by city residents, were taxed $2 a head, females at half that amount.

Youngest Grandmother In Maine 32 Years Old

PORTLAND, Me., April 11.—Mrs. Elmer A. Dyer, of this city, holds the distinction of being "Maine's youngest grandmother."

Mrs. Dyer is thirty-two years old and was married at the age of thirteen years. She regrets that the ceremony was not performed a year earlier. Dancing is an invention of the Evil One, according to Mrs. Dyer, who calls herself an old-fashioned grandmother and is distinctly opposed to votes for women.

Hubby Gone 20 Years, So Wife Gets Divorce

BOSTON, April 11.—Mrs. Lillian B. Metcalf, a grandmotherly woman of about 60 years, has obtained a divorce from her husband Ira G. Metcalf. The divorce was granted when she told Justice Hall in the Suffolk superior court, that she had not seen her husband for twenty years. Mrs. Metcalf did not say why she waited a full score of years before filing a petition. She has a daughter, 21, and a son 33 years old.

BUDGET BILL IS SLATED TO PASS

Foes of Measure Are Routed By Favorable Vote of Committee

By GIL A. COWAN
Special to The Evening News

SACRAMENTO, April 11.—Appropriation bill, No. 999, covering the governor's budget recommendations, will get about one day's airing in the assembly and then be passed, according to predictions heard today in the lobbies.

This forecasting is the result of the assembly ways and means committee's action last night, in voting the bill out "do pass," 13 to 5, an inglorious bursting of the opposition balloon. For what could be done, in view of the budget law voted by the people last November and vesting all power, in so far as practical purposes are concerned, in the governor's hands?

The dissenting votes were cast by Assemblymen Fellom, McMillan, Morrison, Reindollar and Wright. Assemblyman T. M. Wright meekly asked $450,000 for the Berkeley blind school. His request was tabled. Assemblyman Roy Fellom sought $500,000 for the San Francisco teachers' college. His request clattered to the floor like so much pig-iron.

Foes Resigned

Even Assemblyman William Scott, from the bay city, voted with the administration. Chairman Chester Kline umpired, declaring efforts to amend the Richardson figures as fouls. From all of which it appears scarcely a day will be required for the administration forces to dispose of all opposition. A spirit of resignment prevails, not without its humorous angles.

"Where is our prerogative?" asked one of the assemblymen.

"Why, didn't you know the legislature is emasculated?" replied his fellow sufferer.

"It's the cat's meow!" agreed amiable Dr. Dozier.

The latter may have his inning, however, in the reapportionment tussle, as the constitutional amendment committee has sent to the printer his scheme for re-dividing the state.

Assemblyman Harry Lyons looks upon it as a possible compromise measure, in the event the Edwin Baker bill gets hung up in the assembly. Assemblyman Clarence Morris, spokesman for the San Francisco delegation, voted to get it going, adding, "I am against any and all reapportionment measures," which shows the attitude held by the bay.

Fight Jury Bill

The three-fourths jury measure, already passed by the senate, is also slated for opposition from Assemblyman Morris, who aided in skidding it out of the committee.

"When it gets on the floor I am going to fight the daylights out of it and see what other seventy-eight members think of my arguments," says this belligerent assemblyman.

Buron R. Fitts, deputy district attorney of Los Angeles, spoke for the jury change in the constitution, while Paul Sharrenberg, secretary of the state labor federation, talked against it.

If all the constitutional amendments passed out of the committee get before the people it will take a lawyer to tell them how to vote a year from next November.
